Great Britain Wants U. S. Troops In Greece

WHITE HOUSE IS SILENT ON PLAN TO POLICE AREA

British Leader Admits His Country Wants Americans To Relieve Tommies

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — Authoritative sources today confirmed the London disclosure that Britain has asked the United States to occupy Greece, but emphasized that no official action has been taken.

Besides occupation by American troops, it was learned that Britain has suggested a U. S. loan to Greece in the interests of "political and economic tranquility."

LONDON, Feb. 28—The British government today disclosed a desire to withdraw its military forces from Greece and hand the burden over to the United States.

A foreign office spokesman admitted that while no decision yet has been reached, Britain would like to pull its armed forces out of the Balkan peninsula.

It was established earlier that approaches had been made to the United States to assume an increased share of the costs of maintaining an army in Greece because of Britain's perilous financial and economic situation at home, coupled with a manpower shortage.

The spokesman pointed out that the present situation inside Greece — a nation wracked by virtual civil war — is not sufficiently stable to warrant British troops leaving without notice and trusting in the Greek army to control the situation.

Questioned as to whether Britain therefore is aiming at an American occupation force or a joint Anglo-American military control, the spokesman said: "Discussions are proceeding. I cannot say more."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The White House was non-committal today in the face of a disclosure in London that Great Britain has asked the United States to take over occupation of Greece.

A British foreign office spokesman revealed that his government desires to withdraw British troops from the Balkan trouble spot and hand the burden to the United States.

A White House spokesman said he knew nothing of such reports, but he did not deny them.

London papers also said President Truman has been informed that Britain cannot carry the economic load of Greece much longer.

The London Standard said that this was the reason for the meeting of Mr. Truman's state and congressional foreign leaders yesterday.

ONE MAN'S OPINION
By Walter Kiernan

The dollar pork chop is on its way back but you may have to go to the stockyards to see it.

My butcher says "I will carry only choice mink chops until further notice."

"I don't know who's crazier—the people who ran up the price again at the stock yards or the people who bought."

But I do know that somebody hasn't been reading the law of supply and demand—and if there's one thing there isn't any demand for it's high priced pork.

Any way it's good to know that the war assets administration has 25,000 washing machines to sell.

We were well-supplied with washing machines—the original plan was to catch Hitler and put him through the wringer.

Hoover Urges Caution In Giving Foreign Relief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Herbert Hoover told congress today that America must give further aid to starving millions overseas but should "stop, look and listen" in the matter of foreign relief.

The Republican ex-president, appearing before the house foreign affairs committee, asked early appropriation of the 350 million dollars requested by President Truman for additional aid to the hungry in Europe, but said its repayment should be made obligatory. He cautioned: "In their misery, the people abroad believe our possibilities of giving are unlimited."

"They do not realize that our taxes, federal and local, are now two years after the war, still taking about 35 per cent of our national income."

"It is in the interest not only of ourselves but of the whole world that we stop, look and listen."

Hoover recommended that a single administrator should be appointed to coordinate relief programs for the various needy countries.

He told the committee that America has "no desire to fail to do our full part in alleviating the starvation of women and children."

Hoover warned, however, that "at some point American patience and humane action is likely to become exhausted."

The ex-president, whose report to Mr. Truman on his economic mission to ravaged central Europe was made public last night, made his first appearance on Capitol Hill in several years. He declared:

"In my view any nation receiving relief should obligate itself to pay the cost thereof, either to the United States and other donors or preferably to a fund to be established by the United Nations for future famine relief."

PORTER KILLED WHEN PULLMAN CAR CRACKS UP

Runaway Coach Crashed Into Bank Near Scene Of Red Arrow Wreck

GALLITZIN, PA., Feb. 28—A porter was killed and ten persons were injured today when a runaway Pennsylvania railroad pullman car crashed into an embankment after a wild, three-and-a-half mile flight down a mountain near Gallitzin.

The crash occurred on "curve 109", less than a mile from Bennington curve where ten days ago the Pennsylvania's Red Arrow was wrecked, killing 24 persons and injuring 126.

Railroad officials said the Pullman car, at the end of the 13-car westbound Sunshine Special, broke loose while the train was stopped at the top of the mountain to take off one of its two locomotives.

A railroad spokesman said the porter probably died a hero. He apparently was on the rear of the car, attempting to halt its wild flight by using a handbrake, when it left the rails and crashed into the embankment.

The runaway jumped from track 1, careened down the slope until it rammed into the embankment, and then rested across tracks 3 and 4, blocking westbound traffic.

The injured and the porter, L. Keys, Houston, Tex., were picked up by the eastbound Jeffersonian and taken to Altoona general hospital.

There were but 12 passengers in the car at the time of the wreck. Ten had been admitted to the hospital several hours later, but no report of their condition was available pending further examination.

GOP COMMITTEE STILL UNDECIDED ON DEBT PAYING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The senate GOP policy committee agreed today that reduction of President Truman's budget should be handled to permit an income tax cut, but reached no final conclusion on the key issue of payments on the public debt.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, policy chairman, made the announcement following a meeting of the Republican leaders.

Taft said the budget problem, up for final settlement in the senate today, was discussed at length and that "everybody favored a tax cut."

"Nobody wants to do anything to prevent that, but we reached no final conclusion on the question of the public debt."

Two new compromises were being considered by GOP leaders, however, in an effort to beat off the Knowland amendment which threatens the entire Republican tax program.

Circleville Native, 101, Dies At Puyallup, Wash.

News of the death of Mrs. Phebe Asher, 101, a native of Circleville, which occurred Feb. 9 at Puyallup, Wash., was received Friday in Circleville.

Mrs. Asher was born Jan. 23, 1846 in Circleville, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gardner.

At the age of 7 she moved with her parents to Iowa in a covered wagon. At the close of the Civil War the family moved from Iowa to Silver Creek, Neb., where her father operated a "half way house", which was a stopping place for pioneers westward bound. It was there that she married Charles Asher in 1874.

Widowed by the death of her husband in 1883 Mrs. Asher reared her family of six on the homestead at Silver Creek.

BUFFALO, N. Y., school children, some of the 60,000 enjoying an enforced vacation due to the teachers' strike for pay increases, join their instructors on the "observing" line before one of the city's 98 closed schools. Last of the schools were closed by order of the city board of education when a "state of emergency" was declared in what Superintendent Bapst terms a "deplorable mess."

Boulevard Lights To Be In Operation By May 31

Delivery of the metal poles for the 37-unit boulevard lighting system in Circleville has been promised for not later than May 1 and, barring unforeseen obstacles, the new system will be installed and lighted within 30 days thereafter—or about Memorial Day, May 30.

This announcement was made Friday by Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville district manager for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company.

Speed-up of the delivery of the necessary steel six-sided poles was accomplished by a trip Thursday to Canton where the standards are being manufactured.

Mr. Gilmore, City Safety Director Thurman I. Miller, and John Magill, president of the Chamber of Commerce, left by automobile Thursday morning for Columbus where they were joined by George Greisbach, Cincinnati representative of the Line Material company which is supplying the Circleville boulevard light poles. The quartet drove to Canton, arriving there about noon.

WHEAT PRICES HIT NEW HIGH, $2.52 BUSHEL
CHICAGO, Feb. 28—The bullish grain market went into high gear again today.

At mid-session March wheat was up nine cents and sold at $2.52 a bushel, a new 27-year high.

Former President Herbert Hoover's dismal report on European food shortages and his recommendation that huge stocks of grain be shipped abroad to prevent starvation, motivated the upward surge of prices on the Chicago board of trade.

All grain futures hit new seasonal highs in active trading. May wheat was up 6-1/2 cents a bushel, corn futures were up as much as 4 cents, and oats almost 3 cents.

BUFFALO SCHOOL PEACE FADES

Teachers Not Satisfied With Dewey's Committee Report On New Salaries

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 28—Leaders of the Buffalo teachers strike which has closed all of the city's public schools, were prepared today to carry on their strike until their pay demands are assured.

Hopes to settle the strike of the 71,000 children involved could return to classes Monday faded when Raymond J. Ast, president of the Buffalo teachers federation rescinded an earlier statement that the salary report of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's special committee on education would be acceptable to the striking teachers.

Dr. Arvid J. Burke, research director of the state teachers' association, charged that under the Dewey committee report nearly one-third of Buffalo's 3,000 teachers would get no raise in pay next year. He said that 1,156 teachers would get raises of (Continued on Page Two)

STU HOLCOMB IS NAMED PURDUE FOOTBALL COACH

LAFAYETTE, IND., Feb. 2—Purdue university officials announced today that Stuart K. Holcomb, assistant coach at Army, has signed a five-year contract as head football coach at Purdue University.

Holcomb, who had been at West Point for the past three seasons, succeeds Cecil Isbell, who resigned recently to become coach of the Baltimore Colts in the All-America conference.

Holcomb, a former Ohio State grid star, is 36 years old and has had 15 years of collegiate coaching experience at five different institutions.

At Ohio State, as a fullback and halfback in 1929, 1930 and 1931, he won all-Western conference honors.

Holcomb coached four years at Findlay college and five seasons at Muskingum college where he won the Ohio conference title in 1939.

He went to Washington and Jefferson for one year, then returned to Ohio as head coach at Miami university in 1942.

Holcomb entered the Army in the Spring of 1944 and was assigned to West Point, where he has been an assistant coach during the three years in which Army's team has compiled one of the country's greatest gridiron records. He also has been basketball coach at West Point.

AAF Sees Proof Big Planes Will Have Escorts To Almost Any Place

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 — The Army Air Force P-82 "Betty Jo" established a new world's record for sustained flight by a fighter plane today when it streaked from Honolulu to New York.

The official flying time was 14 hours and 32 minutes.

Piloted by Lieut. Col. Robert Thacker, El Centro, Calif., with First Lieut. John M. Ard, Inglewood, Calif., sitting in the plane's second fuselage, the remarkable craft negotiated the 5,000 miles at speeds well beyond 300 miles an hour.

The plane landed with only a few gallons left, of the 2,250 gallons of gas it lifted into the air at Honolulu late yesterday afternoon.

Hundreds of spectators, newsmen and cameramen, and the wives of the two young fliers, were on hand at LaGuardia field to cheer the completion of the mission.

The P-82 is the only propeller-driven fighter craft now being made for the Army Air Forces.

It is a Siamese-twin version of the famous North American P-51 Mustang.

Col. Thacker had planned to drop his four auxiliary wing tanks, two in the Pacific and two near Laramie, Wyo. The plane landed, however, at LaGuardia field with three still attached.

Thacker, still wearing his "Mae West" and oxygen mask, pushed back the plastic cowling of the P-82 as he brought it to a stop, and grinned broadly at the crowd.

Looking down into the mob, he suddenly shouted, "Hey, make room there, that's my wife."

Simultaneously, Lieut. Ard jumped out on his wing and yelled "hi" when he, too spotted his wife.

The history-making flight did not interfere with the gallantry of the two fliers. They had brought orchids and Hawaiian leis as gifts for their wives.

A spanking tail-wind helped the speed of the plane throughout the night as it swept across the largest open water area on the earth, between Honolulu and the California coast, in seven hours and one minute.

Their route thereafter traversed Reno, Nev.; Ogden, Utah; Rock Springs, Wyo.; Sioux City, Ia.; Rockford, Ill.; Windsor, Ont.; Erie, and Wilkes Barre, Pa.

The entire flight was made on oxygen.

The flight was hailed by air force officials as proof that even such very long ranged super-bombers, as the six-engined consolidated B-36, and the eight-jet Northrup flying wing, will in the (Continued on Page Two)

Thacker's powerful fighter, laden with 2,215 gallons of gasoline, lifted her unprecedented weight from Hickam field at 3:03 p. m. Thursday. (8:33 p. m. EST).

The "Betty Jo" roared across the coast line of the continental United States early today and streaked eastward.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Thacker, pilot of the twin-engine fighter, crossed the coastline near Point Arena, Cal., at 12:34 a. m. (3:24 a. m. EST) a scant minute more than seven hours after the take off from Hickam field in Honolulu.

Twenty-six minutes later at 1 a. m. Thacker reported the "Betty Jo" flying past Reno, in a northerly direction from the Nevada divorce capital.

Thacker, Ward and the "Betty Jo" are "guinea pigs" on the flight, which is being made to test numerous devices for long-range fighter flights, one of the biggest headaches of the Army Air Forces.

The twin-fuselage plane was constructed from two P-82 Mustang fighters and equipped with a reclining chair so that the man not handling the controls could rest. The resting pilot, however, has to keep an ear on radio communications and an eye on navigation problems.

The takeoff of the thrice-postponed flight was witnessed at Hickam field by territorial governor Ingram Stainback and Mayor John Wilson of Honolulu.

RASCHIG KEEPS JOB AS PUBLIC WORKS DIRECTOR

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—The state supreme court ruled today that Frank L. Raschig, Cincinnati, is entitled to hold office as state public works director for a term of one year from July 22, 1946.

The court said that the statutes called for appointment of a public works superintendent for a term of neither less nor more than one year. Therefore, it held that former Gov. Lausche's appointment of J. L. McCormick of Ravenna, on Jan. 11, was illegal since there was no vacancy.

Governor Lausche appointed Raschig last July 22 under the impression the term would expire Jan. 1. However, when McCormick was named, Raschig refused to give up the office, contending he was entitled to a full year's term.

McCormick, a Democrat and former state highway division engineer, contested Raschig's claim and ask the supreme court to determine who should hold the office.

Raschig, a Republican, was a holdover appointment from the administration of former Gov. John W. Bricker. He was reappointed by Lausche for a one-year term when Lausche took office in 1945 but then was not named again until last July.

the street lighting pole department, and E. B. Vick, the company's field representative.

Mr. Gilmore said that at first the company officials stated that delivery of the poles to Circleville could not be made prior to October 1 because the huge steel fabricating plant—which was a war plant—is swamped with orders and that a "bottle neck" has developed because of inability to procure sufficient steel. After further discussion company officials promised definitely to make delivery of the 37 metal standards for the Circleville boulevard system not later than May 1.

It was explained that the company will deliver the poles to Circleville by motor truck—in order to save the time that would likely be required for rail transportation—and that the metal stands will be in Circleville about 24 hours after the trucks leave the Canton factory.

Mr. Gilmore said that the "arms" and other parts of the light standards have already been made and are in the Canton plant awaiting completion of the poles. The light fixtures, wiring, and other essential materials already in Circleville, Mr. Gilmore explained, and have been in the possession of the power company here for three or four months.

Unless something unforeseen develops to prevent delivery of the poles on or before May 1, as promised, Mr. Gilmore said, the new boulevard system will be installed and completed and the lights will be turned on by Memorial Day.

Marcum on grounds of gross neglect of duty. Mrs. Marcum was given the custody of a minor daughter.

Herbert then explained that the problem of increasing appropriations "is no different than yours". He continued: "It's simply a question of how much money we have coming in and where we can spend it to best advantage. We are confronted with many desperate needs."

"But I'm satisfied that when this legislature goes home, the schools and teachers of Ohio will know they have been helped by the state of Ohio. How much, remains to be solved."

At the same time, an independent union leader testified before the senate labor committee that "the time has now come to regulate labor relations in the public interest." The witness was Walter W. Cenerazzo, head of the American Watch Workers union.

DILTZ, CLIFTON FACE TRIAL ON LEGION CHARGE

Accused of the $1,300 burglary of the American Legion club, 136 East Main street, Orin Diltz, 24, and George Clifton, 23, will go on trial jointly, March 24, before a jury in Pickaway county common pleas court.

This announcement was made Friday by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff following a conference with County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins, Special Prosecutor Tom A. Renick, and counsel for the two accused men.

The robbery of the Legion occurred the night of Nov. 9, 1946. Diltz is now in the Ohio Penitentiary and Clifton is at liberty under $25,000 bond.

A jury on Feb. 5 found Diltz guilty of grand larceny in the looting of the parked automobile of Vaden Couch and he was sentenced to one to seven years in the state prison.

A jury on Feb. 22 acquitted Clifton of the $333 burglary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars club, 217 North Court street.

Early in January the grand jury returned five indictments against Diltz and four against Clifton.

SOLONS STUDY FILES ON SHIPS LOANED TO REDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The house merchant marine committee today studied correspondence between the U. S. and Russia concerning Soviet failure to return 95 lend-lease ships which was produced after the group issued a subpoena for State Secretary Marshall.

At the same time, Rep. Alvin Weichel (R) Ohio, chairman of a sub-committee looking into the matter of the lend-lease vessels, pressed Marshall to inquire about the ship problem when he goes to Moscow next month.

Weichel, who had issued the subpoena for the secretary, said following a telephone conversation with Marshall that the secretary did not indicate just what action would be taken on the congressman's request.

The subpoena was recalled by Rep. Bradley (R) Mich., chairman of the full merchant marine committee, when under-secretary of state Dean Acheson submitted to him three notes from the U. S. to Russia and the Soviet reply which previously had been termed "unsatisfactory."

Acheson said there had been no further word from Russia despite two more urgent American notes.

Gov. Dewey's committee, in a report made public in Albany, recommended, effectively July 1, a pay scale of $2,200 to $4,510 with $2,400 to $4,710 for teachers with master's degree.

The striking teachers of Buffalo had asked a starting minimum of $2,400.

Last night on the radio Ast said the salary schedule recommended by the governor's committee appears to be "attractive" on the surface.

A demonstration was staged at city hall by 200 students of Veterans high school. They marched to city hall to urge Mayor Bernard J. Dowd to press for a quick settlement of the strike.

Mayor Dowd consented to receive three spokesmen from the group and proceeded to rebuke them. He told them they had no right "to come here unannounced and create a spectacle."

The trio urged the mayor to "force the issue and get the teachers back so we can finish our education."

They explained that if they lost one week of schooling, it was equivalent to two weeks in a regular high school, inasmuch as they were on an accelerated schedule.

believed seriously hurt.

The train, running from New York to Texas, was 50 minutes behind schedule when it stopped at Gallitzin, officials said.

The passengers, the spokesman said, probably were asleep and unaware of the impending tragedy. The wreck occurred at 3:54 a. m.

Railroad officials could offer no explanation as to how the car, which had been pulled up the mountain, could break loose while the train was halted.

First Changes In Ohio Congress Districts In 40 Years Is Proposed

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—The first changes in the boundaries of Ohio's 22 congressional districts in 40 years may take place in 1951.

Sen. Carl D. Sheppard (R-Akron) proposed an amendment to the Ohio constitution which would pattern the congressional districts on the same automatic plan by which state senatorial districts are now determined.

If his joint resolution is passed by three-fifths vote of both house and senate, the proposal will be placed before the voters in the 1948 general election.

Approval of the voters would set the reapportionment machinery in action. In 1951—the year after the regular ten-year federal census — a five-man board would divide the state up into districts and do away with the present office of congressman-at-large.

The board, composed of the governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house, would divide the state into the number of districts to which Ohio is entitled. The division shall be as nearly as possible on a population basis.

Sheppard, chairman of the senate elections committee, explained that the present district boundaries were established by the legislature in 1911.

For the last several sessions, Sheppard attempted to persuade the legislature to re-apportion the congressional districts without success. Now he proposes to do by constitutional amendment what the solons refused to do by legislative enactment.

Sheppard pointed out that one southern Ohio district now has 165,000 population, while the Cleveland 22nd district—that of Mrs. Frances P. Bolton—has 700,000 residents.

"Each voter in the southern district thus has three times as much power in the federal congress as does the voter in Mrs. Bolton's district," Sheppard stated.

Not only would the state be re-apportioned in 1951, but each ten years thereafter, although in the subsequent divisions there would be less discretion on the part of the apportioning board.

As the number of congressmen to which the state is entitled is increased or decreased, the largest districts would be divided or the smaller districts joined to provide new districts. This specific change would be administered by a three-member board composed of the governor, secretary of state and state auditor—the same three officials who now determine the state senatorial districts on the same plan.

FIVE INDIANS STILL UNSIGNED FOR '47 SEASON

TUCSON, ARIZ., Feb. 28 — Only five Cleveland Indians remained unsigned today for the Tribe's 1947 season.

Heading the list is big Heinz Becker, veteran first-baseman. Others include catcher Tom Jordan, outfielder George Case and pitchers Bryant Stephens and "Jittery Joe" Berry. None of the five figures prominently in Tribal plans.

Manager Lou Boudreau once more sent his charges through a brisk workout at the Indians' Tucson training camp yesterday.

A sparkling infield combination of, reading from first to third, Eddie Robinson, Joe Gordon, Manager Lou and Kenny Keltner highlighted the session. Right - fielder Hank Edwards joined practice for the first time and presented a sharp hitting display.

First intra-squad game of the season will be held tomorrow with newsmen serving as umpires and the Cleveland coaching staff handling the scoring and grandstand announcing.

TIGERS LOSE IN TOURNAMENT TO MCKINLEY FIVE

Circleville Ends Season With 50-39 Defeat By Columbus Team

Circleville high school's basketball season was over Friday, following a 50-39 defeat by Linden McKinley Thursday night in the Class A tournament at Delaware.

Height again was a factor in the Tigers' defeat. Three tall Linden boys and a couple of fast "shorties" proved too good at scoring and Circleville again lost its first tourney start.

The Tigers put up a good battle all the way but were close only in the first period, which ended 17-14 in favor of Linden after the score had been tied four times and Circleville had led five times. The Tigers trailed 20-29 at the half. In the third quarter they outscored McKinley 11 to 9, Linden leading 33-31 at the end of the period.

Bob McCoy and Paul Smallwood scored nine points each for Circleville. Long Bob Showalter and "shorty" Ed Hanawalt had 12 each for the Columbus school.

Seventeen personal fouls were called on Circleville, Bob Steele going out early in the fourth period. Nine personals were called on Linden. The Tigers made five and missed four foul shots. Linden made 10 of 20 tries.

In other games at Delaware Columbus Central defeated East 45-34; Bexley edged Columbus North, 54-52 and Newark trounced Westerville 74-39.

SEEDING TEAMS BATTLE RENEWED AT TOURNAMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—An old familiar controversy cropped up again in state scholastic basketball ranks today.

Discontent was voiced in many sectors over procedure followed in seeding outstanding ball clubs. At issue were tournament plans that placed schools from a single city or county in the same bracket.

Ohio High School Athletic association rules state: "As many teams in sectional and district tournaments must be seeded as there will be qualifiers for the next higher tournament. In the B sectional tournaments, teams from the same counties should not be required to play one another the first round."

However, with both upper and lower bracket winners qualified for advanced play in many tournaments, some communities found only one of their teams able to survive.

Hamilton Journal sports editor Bill Moeller recorded a particularly strong protest. Pointing out that Hamilton Public and Central Catholic, both seeded but not into different brackets, would inevitably collide unless eliminated earlier, Moeller charged shenanigans on the part of tournament officials.

"It appears that the Dayton tournament officials are determined to get a Dayton team into the regionals," Moeller charged. "So they refused to seed Hamilton and Central Catholic into different brackets."

Canton Lehman Coach Jim Robinson also insisted seeded quintets from the same city should be separated automatically. He conceded that this year's drawings worked out alright for Lehman and McKinley but added that "they might not have."

MAYER HORSES SELL AT AVERAGE OF $25,891 EACH

ARCADIA, CAL., Feb. 28—Louis B. Mayer, one of the highest-salaried men in the world, cried unashamedly as he walked away from Santa Anita race track early today.

Mayer, who sponsored the most fabulous auction sale in the history of the turf for the number of horses sold, admitted he was not happy and he didn't care who knew it.

He had just watched 80 head of his race empire put under the hammer at the Arcadia race plant, where turfmen from all over the world had come to bid for the assortment of horseflesh.

The Mayer stable, which sold at the rate of 15 per hour, increased Mayer's fortune by $1,553,500, for an average of $25,891 per head.

Stepfather, three-year-old son of Beau Pere who is entered in four $100,000 races this semester, was bought by Harry M. Warner, a movie competitor of Mayer, for $200,000 cash. It was the highest price ever paid for a horse in training.

Busher, the champion money-winning mare of all time, was sold to Mayer's personal attorney, Neil S. McCarthy, for $135,000.

ESHELMAN FIVE STOPS ROBTOWN

Ashville KP Takes Over Top Spot In City Industrial Cage Circuit

Ashville KP took over undisputed possession of first place in the second round of the City Industrial basketball league at Roll and Bowl Thursday night by trouncing Pickaway Dairy while Eshelman Feeds was defeating Robtown Stock Farm.

With Eugene Wilson getting 16 points and Brother "Red" 14, Ashville won 50-21. Martin and Anderson had six each for Pickaway Dairy.

Jay Gregg scored 16 points and held Brother Russ to 11 as Eshelman's took Robtown 48-38. "Chuck" Pettibone and Jack Hennis collected 14 points each for Eshelman's.

Leon Sims counted 23 points as Blue Ribbon trounced Tarlton AC 73-35. Bob Valentine had 14 and Don Valentine 13.

In an exhibition game Eagles won 27-24 over Ashville AC.

REDS HOPE NEW MANAGER, NEW PLAYERS GOOD

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28—A new manager and a flock of promising rookies were the chief assets of the Cincinnati Reds today as they prepared to open their 1947 Spring training camp at Tampa, Fla.

The entire Red squad is due to report tomorrow at the Florida conditioning camp.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati fans heard background strains of a familiar "strong pitching but weak hitting" refrain and wondered if Manager Johnny Neun could supply an answer to the annual Redleg problem.

ATLANTA WINS EASILY FROM MT. VERNON FIVE

Joe Drake Takes Scoring Honors In Westerville Tournament Play

Atlanta became the first Pickaway county team in two years to win a district tournament game when the Perry township five blasted Mt. Vernon St. Vincent 49-23 in the Class B tourney at Westerville.

Joe Drake, Atlanta's high scoring forward, won scoring honors of the evening with 23 points as his team ran over the Mt. Vernon team. He had able assistance from Joe Hobbie, who scored 11.

Perry started slowly and St. Vincent took an 8-7 edge at the end of the first period. In the second quarter the Atlanta boys poured in 16 points to take a 23-12 halftime margin. In the third quarter Warren Hobbie's boys ran the score to 35-17.

As the result of their Thursday night victory, the Perry boys will play at 7 p. m. Saturday against the winner of Friday night's Pleasant - Holy Rosary game.

In other games Thursday night at Westerville Grove City, which eliminated New Holland, won 41-30 over Claridon; Groveport trounced Bremen, 52-37; Sunbury margined University, 38-32; Granville eliminated Lancaster St. Mary's 39-32.

Friday night Monroe, third place Pickaway county team, plays its first game in the tournament, meeting Marion St. Mary.

FOOTBALL CAMPS VOTED DOWN BY OHSAA MEMBERS

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—Ohio high schools in a referendum voted against allowing Summer football camps, state high school athletic commissioner Harold Emmsler announced Wednesday.

As rules now stand, teams not having Spring football practice may begin practice August 20, but may not maintain a football camp before Sept. 1.

At the same time, Emmsler revealed that the annual state Spring meets had been moved back one week. This year, they will be held in Columbus May 30 and 31, instead of May 24.

Class A baseball teams will have a regional tourney before eight finalists come to Columbus for the state finals. The class B schedule will remain as in former years.

Somerset Holy Trinity was accepted as a member of the association, Emmsler also announced.

NEW CHAMP FOR CLASS B SURE

Farmer Eliminated; 25-Game Record Of Belmont Five Snapped; Middies Win

By International News Service

Ohio high school Class B tournament survivors had a vacant throne to shoot at today following defeat last night of Farmer's defending champions.

The Defiance county school, with a pre-tourney record of 18 victories and five defeats, bowed to Delta of Fulton county, 31 to 30, at Leipsic.

Meanwhile, Middletown opened defense of its Class A championship by roundly thumping Xenia Central, 40 to 18. The victory was made more impressive by the fact that the Middies lost a one-point decision to Central during the regular season.

Still another team was lopped off the undefeated list in Class B as Belmont was toppled by Adena, 70 to 48. Adena, defending district champion, shattered a 25-game winning streak for Belmont.

In the same tournament at Lafferty, high scoring Bill Pittinger of Jefferson-Union rang up 30 points to bring his season's total to 663. His team lost, however, to Somerton, 60-57 in an overtime.

Bettsville kept its unbeaten skein going at Bascom, whipping Ridgeway, 62 to 27, for No. 24 in a row.

Four perfect records are due to be tested tonight.

In Class A, Upper Arlington (18-0) plays Delaware (5-16), while Bryan (16-0) meets Montpelier (7-12).

Frazysburg, with 26 straight triumphs, makes its second Class B tourney start at Zanesville.

ville against Zanesville St. Nicholas. At Waverly, West Union pits its 21-0 mark against Lynchburg.

Both Hamilton Catholic, at Dayton, and Findlay, on its home court, racked up their 16th Class A victory yesterday against a pair of losses. Hamilton defeated Troy, 41 to 25, while Findlay whipped St. Marys, 47 to 30.

Newark's Wildcats, three times state champs in past years romped to their 20th win in 23 starts, 74 to 39, over Westerville at Delaware.

Class A headliners tonight include: Hamilton Public vs. Piquette; East Liverpool vs. Wells; Euclid Shore vs. Lorain; Cincinnati Walnut Hills vs. Cincinnati Vocational, and Norwalk vs. Tiffin Calvert.

At Westerville, two Class B titans collide when Caledonia (21-1) tackles Newark St. Francis (23-2). Once-beaten Yorkville and Strasburg meet Cadiz and Dennison St. Marys at Lafferty and Dover, respectively.

WHERE IT HURTS
ONE ARGUMENT, usually unspoken but none the less important to a few senators who want to defeat David E. Lilienthal's appointment to the atomic commission is "He never carried a precinct." This is back of the suggestions that some one like ex-Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin be substituted for Lilienthal. La Follette is a good man whose departure from the Senate is Wisconsin's and the nation's loss. He, however, lacks the training needed in a technical post.
The Senate is always like that. Nominate a former member for a federal job, and he is confirmed pronto. Even a Bilbo, if named to the Supreme Court, might get by through the operation of the custom known as "senatorial courtesy". But to see a well-paid and conspicuous public office go to a man of no political experience really hurts the feelings of some senators, no matter how good the qualifications of the man appointed.

DO WE WANT TO LIVE?
WE SMUG earthlings have often flattered ourselves that this is "the best of all possible worlds." And it might really be so—if we had sense and decency enough to cooperate steadfastly in ways really calculated to cooperate with the Almighty in a convincing demonstration of human decency.
But what happens? All of a sudden that factor is forgotten, and up jumps again an atomic scientist boasting of means whereby this infatuated world can produce and utilize bombs a thousand times more powerful than those used at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. And we can see and hear again the glee with which thousands of well-meaning but reckless citizens, instead of seeking genuine peace and thus perpetuating the human race on this planet, set about to blow up the world.
Surely it is time to abandon such reckless insanity.

WORLD WATCHES BRITAIN
ENGLAND'S present economic difficulties are due to complex causes. It is patently unfair to put the blame for all of them on the nationalization program of the Labor Government. Nevertheless the most ardent socialist hardly would claim public ownership in Britain a success.
In democracies, if they are to remain democracies, it is hard to find enough men so experienced both in state craft and business that they can manage simultaneously a country's commerce and its politics. As government controls increase, private operators are pushed farther under the domination of a growing army of public servants in line for political appointment but seldom qualified by business training.
The world is watching to see whether England solves her problems through a continuing socialization, or a gradual turn back toward democracy's free enterprise.

Veterans Administration Wars No Quick Senate Passage Seen On Chiselers of GI Benefits For 2-Term Tenure Amendment
Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—The Veterans' Administration is carrying on a quiet but vigorous drive against ex-GIs who are "chiseling" too many benefits.
Principal offenders are former servicemen who have been collecting both jobless pay and educational or training subsistence allowances.
Others put in claims for readjustment allowances while employed on a full-time basis, using an alias to hold their jobs. Still another type of offender is the man who attempts to collect an educational allowance to which he is not entitled.
There have been instances in which a veteran has sought to obtain jobless pay, student or training allowance, and a salary from one or more private employers, all at the same time.
VA officials point out that up to the present they have had their hands full setting the various programs in operation. Now, however, the routine machinery is functioning smoothly and enforcement efforts can be put on a rigid basis.
The VA emphasizes that dishonest veterans are far in the minority, but will single out a number of "chiselers" for punitive action in the near future.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The Republicans are skating on thin ice in their budget slashing, and know it. But they can safely make it, and the goal justifies the risk.
As a matter of fact, the ice is thinner than the arguing senators know or indicate in their public statements. From a top finance authority on a recent trip, I learned what few of the best informed Washingtonians realize—namely, nearly $100 billions of the federal debt are in short term paper. His calculation from federal reserve board statistics indicated $93 billions were obligations of duration under a year. My investigation concludes that two months ago the treasury had outstanding about $17 billions in bills, $29 billions in certificates of indebtedness, $10 billions in notes, nearly $6 billions in tax and savings notes, about $25 billions in special issues and $1½ billions in non-interest bearing debt. This totals above $88 billions.
Whatever the exact figure may be, if money again becomes tight, or any emergency develops, the treasury would have an unwelcome financing problem on its hands. A building boom might absorb money to an embarrassing extent, for instance.
Prudence would seem to require the refunding of a larger portion of small interest short term holding into long term bonds. Although the long terms might cost the treasury twice as much in what the books show as interest payments, actually the government recaptures considerable interest and the cost is far less burdensome than advertised.
The press seemed to have an inkling of something like this situation. A survey of newspaper opinion the second week in February before the issue became hot showed a surprising total of only 7 percent of the newspapers behind the proposed house cut of $6 billions. The Republican house move was disapproved by 28 percent, 13 percent of the papers offered mixed comment, while the remainder was silent.
What the press and public do not apparently understand is that the $6 billions figure is only a little above 17 percent of the budget. Anyone who knows Washington must realize that a substantial amount can prudently be cut from any budget without damage to necessary government activity. Both press and public have been impressed, for instance, by the testimony of the generals that national defense would be "immobilized" (they say the Navy would be) by a cut of only 10 percent in their $11.3 billions. No one seems to notice figures of Senator Byrd (whose figures on any subject have never been successfully disputed to my knowledge) showing the armed forces budget proposes to spend $3,100 per man as compared with $1,306 in 1940. This is for personal maintenance alone and does not include munitions or engines of war.
Any citizen who has been in the armed forces knows 10 percent can be cut from general military expenditures nearly any time without delivering the nation into the hands of its enemies. Privately some Army and Navy authorities concede such a cut would only eliminate extravagances.
Byrd, who has made the study of government waste his foremost work, was not even a member of the joint committee recommending budget cuts. His independent non-partisan position, however, has given him a valuable objectivity. He says somewhere around $5 to $6 billions can and should be cut, but he is against the proposed similar 20 percent cut in taxes hurriedly, saying this should be delayed at least until the coming July.

Infra-Red Treatment Helps Many Different Disorders
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
IF our sense of wonder had not been dulled by the vast accumulation of modern scientific miracles, we would doubtless be a little awestruck at the fact that mere rays of light can be used for healing purposes. Certainly the man of a hundred years ago would have been in the first place, light to him was light and nothing more. He did not know that it is composed of rays of many different kinds, some of them, strangely enough, completely invisible to the human eye.
One of these invisible light components is known today as infra-red and we have machines for producing infra-red rays in quantities. They are valuable in the treatment of various diseases because they are able to produce heat within the tissues. The chief effects of this heat are to dilate the blood vessels and speed up the circulation. This, in turn, increases the activity of the white blood cells in getting rid of waste materials and germs, relaxes spasm and tension, and relieves pain due to action on the nerve endings.
Infra-Red Treatment
Thus, according to Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald of North Carolina, infra-red ray treatment may be used with benefit whenever the tissues are inflamed, when infection is present, and when there is need to speed up tissue repair. In other words, the infra-red ray treatment may be employed for such conditions as arthritis or inflammation of the joints, sprains and strains, or neuritis. It may be helpful for boils, infected wounds, or prostatic gland inflammation. On the other hand, when the condition is deeper in the tissues, an electrical form of treatment known as diathermy may prove to be more valuable.
Infra-red ray treatment should not be employed when there has been an injury with bleeding into the tissues or when there is an insufficiency in the blood supply.
Moderate Heat
In arthritis the infra-red rays, by supplying moderate heat, dilate or widen the tiny blood vessels, increase the circulation and speed up the activity in the cells. The heat also tends to relieve the pain in the joints to some extent and makes the cold, clammy skin of the arthritic patient warm and red.
In certain eye disorders the application of heat is valuable in relieving the symptoms. Using infra-red rays for this purpose has advantages over other methods because it is clean, can be done without risk of infecting the wound, and without any direct contact with the lids. Furthermore there is no pain from pressure, such as may occur with the use of hot water bottles. Thus, infra-red ray treatments may be used in such eye disorders as sties, inflammation of the eye glands, the tear sac, ulcer of the cornea or front part of the eyeball or inflammation of the colored part of the eyeball known as iritis.
Infra-red ray treatments have also been used in sinus infections. Such treatment is comforting, helps increase the drainage from the sinuses and overcomes blocking of the nasal passages. Of course it is important to understand that this type of treatment should only be given under the doctor's direction.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX
"LILLI," MADISON began easily, "people say you're a good friend of Vicente's."
She did not answer, and he went on, his voice almost affable. "Of course, there's no reason why you shouldn't be friends. For that matter, there's no real reason why Vicente and I shouldn't be friends—neither of us can gain anything by this eternal fighting." He waited, but could make nothing of her half-averted face. "Unless," he added casually, "he'd rather go on working with Bogard."
Still no sign—for all he could tell she might not even be listening, and feeling he had wasted time, he rose to his feet. "If you ever see Vicente, you tell him what I said. And tell him that another one of my vaqueros disappeared this morning. He probably knows all about that, but what he doesn't know is that tomorrow there'll be a reward offered for him dead or alive. That'll put some life in the soldiers."
At the word "soldiers" he saw her start. That at least had made an impression, and seizing his advantage, he hurried on. "If there's enough money in it for them, the soldiers will make it hot for your friend Vicente."
Eyes shadowed with fear, Lilli answered, "It's not Vicente's fault what happens. You know that. Vicente only does what his chief tells him."
"But Vicente will be the one to suffer. And if Bogard gets mixed up in it, he'll suffer too." Madison licked his lips. "Vicente and Bogard both—rotting out their days in the prison colony."
"No!" It was an involuntary cry of dread. She came toward him, her fear of him forgotten, while curiously Madison watched her.
"Well?" he asked. "What is it?"
"If I tell you something, will you promise to keep the soldiers from hurting Vicente—or Cliff?"
"I can try."
"If I told you who the real Blackland leader is—the one who makes Vicente do what he does—would you let Vicente and Cliff alone?"
Madison's head jerked. The leader! Here was something beyond his wildest hopes. He tried to speak calmly. "I promise."
"You won't do anything to Vicente?"
"No, I told you, no!" His voice was shrilling with impatience.
A silence that to Madison seemed eternity, then, "The Blackland leader is Miss Janet's father."
"You little fool!" He barked a laugh of savage disappointment. "Norman's been dead two years."
"He's not dead. He's alive. I saw him."
"You little babbling—!" He stopped. She seemed so very sure, and within him stirred a memory of Norman's fierce championship of the Blacklands people. Another memory flashed in upon him—it had been Vicente who guided the searching party to the doctor's flooded camp. Yes, and the rise of the Blackland leader followed almost on the heels of Norman's disappearance. The thing was unbelievable, and yet—
He leaned over her. "Where did you see Dr. Norman?"
She made a vague gesture toward the jungle.
"Where?" Seizing her by both shoulders, he shook her. Tears started from his eyes, but she would not speak, and with an effort he controlled himself.
"I'm sorry, Lilli. I won't ask you where you saw him. I don't care where you saw him, but just tell me this—are you certain, absolutely certain, it was Dr. Norman?"
"I'm certain."
A thrill of exultation swept him. The story could be true! It had to be true! That was why Janet had come back. And only a few hours ago she had called him a thief!
"Does Janet Norman know where her father is?" he demanded.
"I guess so."
"Then she can tell the soldiers all about it." He hurried out into the night and bellowed, "Sloan! You go ahead to the river camp. I'm riding over to the garrison."
"Look, Boss"—Sloan's voice grated in disgust—"you ain't goin' to get us mixed up with the soldiers?"
"I've got a tale that will make them our friends for life." Madison stopped. "And I better take that back along to vouch for it." He raced back to the shack, but at the door he began cursing. The room was empty.
It was nearly dawn when Cliff heard Lilli calling him from outside his door. At sight of her stricken face, he lifted her in his arms and carried her to a chair.
"What's wrong? Are you hurt?"
"The soldiers—" She was very close to exhaustion.
"What about the soldiers?"
Wordless, she clung to him like a frightened child, then at last, "They're coming for Miss Janet. It was my fault. Don't be mad at me."
He knelt beside her while brokenly she told him the tale. "I saw you and Miss Janet through the window," she ended, and a sob shook her. "I was jealous, and I went back to the cabin to stay. I never wanted to come here again. Then when Madison said he was going for the soldiers, I ran all the way down to tell you. Please don't be mad."
"There isn't time to be mad." Anything could happen if Janet fell into the soldiers' hands. Norman might give himself up, or worse still, attack the garrison and put himself for all time on the wrong side of the law. Or Cliff's own men might make some desperate attempt to rescue her. And even at that moment of crisis Cliff felt a reluctant admiration for Madison's strategy in sending soldiers to take Janet instead of his own vaqueros. Cliff might oppose the vaqueros, but he could not risk open conflict with the federalists.
He lifted Lilli from out the chair. "Go wake Janet," he ordered. "Have her put on her riding things and meet me at the office. Make her hurry."
In the barn, he saddled his two best horses, and leaving them hidden behind a bulldozer, ran back to the office. Janet and Lilli were already waiting, and he banded Janet into her jacket.
"We've got to get away from here," he told her. "There's no time to explain why, but if you're caught it means a smash-up."
"I'm ready." Her face was pale, but the low voice was resolute, and he knew he could count on her. There would be no weakening, whatever happened, and within him he felt a thrill of pride that this should be so.

STARRSAY—
For Friday, February 28
CONFLICTING configurations make this a day demanding exceptional forethought and keen sagacity before making any moves of importance. Strange situations or sudden developments may change plans and objectives already on the way to enduring progress, but this unforeseen event only complicates and baffles. Seize promising openings with keen insight and not emotions, and expect to cope with influential sources. Subtle approach, even some fancy social flourishes, may have magic denouements.
For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of dramatic and intriguing developments, in which all manner of tactics, sagacious, clever, subtle and at the same time conservative and restrained, may be needed. A sudden and perhaps startling situation calls for keen insight and quick action, but no rash jump into hazardous futures. Social, romantic or intriguing tactics might have force in making decisions and would bring desired contacts or needed diversion. Be ready for any phase of the unexpected.
A child born on this day has many diverse phases of character and talents, and should enjoy a hazardous, adventurous career, of strange conflicts and experiences.

WHICH OCCURS FIRST?
HOW THE contract makes it can depend upon which of two events occurs before the other. Usually it means which of two suits is led first. In the case of a No Trump contract, if the declarer's only stopper in a particular suit is removed early in the play, he can not afford loss of a trick in some other suit in order to establish his lower cards. On the other hand, if he can set up that suit of his own while he still has the stopper of the adverse one, he may be oked. The same principal applies also to premature removal of a re-entry as to removal of a stopper.

sary jump as a high card strength shower.
North decided that West must be ready for a diamond lead, so selected the heart J. When he did he declared the Q won that, a club was led to the A and a small spade brought back from dummy. South came in with the K and then returned the Q of his partner's precariously-bid diamond suit. It was too late, however. West used his A, scored the spade Q, led to the club K, ran the rest of the spades and finished with club tricks—having had the fun of discarding the heart A, which he did not need.
Just notice what would have happened if North had led a diamond. The A would have been knocked out right at the start. West could not possibly accumulate more than ten tricks before trying to set up some spades. When he tackled the suit, South would return the lethal diamonds to set him.

EMS Players Present 'Papa Is All' At CHS

Large Crowd Sees
First Showing
Of Comedy

"Papa is All", a three act light comedy, by Patterson Greene, was presented at Circleville high school auditorium, Thursday evening, by members of Epsilon Mu Sigma, English merit society of C. H. S. An appreciative and receptive audience filled the auditorium.

Action takes place in 1941 in the kitchen of the Aukamp farmhouse near Lancaster, Pennsylvania, in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country. The characters, Dutch dialect, and story of the play are typical presentations. The author brings out strikingly the conflict in the small family between the orthodox Mennonite farmer Aukamp and his two teen-age children—a boy and a girl, and the forbearance and understanding of his timid and completely cowed wife. Papa is a severe, ruthless, cruel individual who in enforcing his will upon those around him does not hesitate to use force. His will, in his own mind, is the will of God and hence for these many years has exacted complete obedience even to the point of servitude. Mama bends to his demands but at the same time aids and abets both Emma and Jake in following to some slight degree their own desires. Jake years to be an inventor and is secretly taking a correspondence course. Emma, a pretty vivacious young woman, dreams and talks to her mother and Jake of her attraction for a young surveyor whom she has met. Mama knows of their meetings and while she doesn't quite approve she helps Emma keep an appointment with the young man.

Climax of the play comes when papa learns of Emma's date and her trip to the movies in Lancaster from Mrs. Yoder, a young neighbor who frequently drops in at the Aukamps. Papa vehemently vows vengeance upon the young man and upon his family.

Development of the plot contains mystery, pathos, and comedy.

Not once in the two hour performance were the six young people ever out of character, and was an excellent presentation of a play different in type from any high school performance in recent years.

Rodman Heine as papa, Virginia McCain as mama, Shirley Blake as Emma, Robert Johnson as Jake, Lannie Given as Mrs. Yoder, and Tom Pettit as Brendle, the highway patrolman, all turned in excellent performances.

E. R. Hamlyn, speech and dramatics teacher in the high school, directed the play. It was his first, since joining the faculty last fall. To Mr. Hamlyn, his play cast, technical staffs and Miss Margaret Rooney, adviser of E. M. S. congratulations are to be extended for an outstanding presentation of a good play. The comedy will be repeated Friday at 8:15 p. m. in the auditorium.

Between acts the high school girls' sextette composed of Elaine Baker, Doris Kinney, Beverly Kline, Lorraine Pritchard, Lucille Stambaugh, and Joan Webb under the direction of Mrs. Helen Brown, music supervisor, presented four numbers. Beverly Reid played the piano accompaniments for the group.

Group D Meets In Adkins Home

Mrs. Robert Adkins, Montclair avenue, lent the hospitality of her home Thursday evening to members of group D, Woman's Association of the Presbyterian church, for their regular monthly meeting. Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Charles Dresbach and Mrs. Orin Dreisbach.

Mrs. E. O. Crites, chairman, presided at the meeting, and presented Mrs. Edwin Jury, who read an article on missionaries. Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, Jr. read a paper on "Ohio Composers". She traced the history of music and composers in Ohio from pioneer days, to modern music and musicians, from the first gospel singing of the churches, and the drinking and dancing songs of the taverns in pioneer days. In closing her most interesting review Mrs. Adkins, told of the founding of the Cincinnati symphony orchestra in 1895, and of the birth of the Cleveland orchestra in 1918, as well as many other Ohio orchestra and operatic groups.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. Howard Clark Is Hostess To GOP Boosters Meeting

Mrs. Howard Clark, Walnut street, entertained members of GOP Boosters Thursday evening. Meeting was called to order by Mrs. B. M. Wignel, president, which opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the group singing "America".

Topics discussed during the session were, "February as the month of famous men's birthdays", which included, Thomas Edison, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. "Thirty-seven years ago Boy Scout organization was founded" and "Ninety-two years ago the first republican convention was held." These discussions were followed by a song-fest.

Dedication ceremony was held for the new American flag, which was recently purchased. President read a letter from Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, containing a message and gift from Congressmen and Mrs. Walter Brehm. Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Wayne Stonerock, and Miss Leona Dumm were remembered at this time by their "secret-pals" in observance of their birthday anniversaries.

The group held a shower for Mrs. Marion Ervin Smith, who is a member of GOP Boosters. Mrs. Smith is a recent war-bride from Ipswich England.

Hostess served refreshments, which was followed by the playing of games. Prizes were presented to Mrs. John Straley, Mrs. Charles Winner and Mrs. George Mavis.

Lutheran Family Circle Observes 4th Anniversary

Sixty-five members and friends attended the cooperative dinner of the Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran church, held Thursday evening in the parish house. The affair was in celebration of the fourth birthday of the circle. Dining room table was centered with a group of four white cakes, flanked by tall burning tapers.

Mrs. Harold Anderson and Mrs. Gladden Troutman, served on the dining room committee, and were responsible for the regular monthly session. Fritz Sieverts was in charge of the program. He presented moving pictures, entitled, "Prodigal Son" and a travelogue of "Trains". During the short business meeting the Family Circle agreed to sponsor a Cub pack, which will be open to any boy.

Mrs. Walter Heine, chairman of the Juliette Low members, reported that a total of 20 boxes, 107 pounds, and a value of $60.57 had been collected by the girls and sent as friendship boxes to Girl Scouts in devastated countries. Countries chosen for these gifts included Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, England, Philippines Islands, Greece and Belgium. Juliette Low members of the several troops are I, Nancy Watt and Nancy Bowler, 2-Jacqueline Smith, 3-Jo Ellen Good, Brownie troop 5 Anne Adkins, Ashville troop 6 Ann Kraft, Brownie troop 7, Ann Stocklin, senior troop 8, Wanda Young, 9 Yvonne Clifton, Brownie troop 10, Doty Renick, and troop 11, Eleanor Lewis. The function of these girls is to foster international spirit within the troop and encourage friendship with other countries.

MISS ROONEY TO SPEAK
Monday club will meet in regular session, Monday at 8 p. m. in the Trustee's room, Memorial hall. Continuing their years' study of "Your Land and Mine", Miss Margaret Rooney will present a paper on, "Historic Shrines" and Miss Florence Hoffman will discuss, "Wisconsin and the Dells". Program committee members selected, "We know not the millionth part of the wonders of this beautiful country", as a fitting lead for the evening's program.

CLASS MEETS MONDAY
Mrs. A. V. Couch will lend the hospitality of her home, for members of Mrs. Marion's Sunday school class, at their monthly session scheduled to be held Monday at 8 p. m. in her home on East Mill street.

CERTIFIED LEGHORN CHICKS A few cents more invested in good chicks is money wisely invested. With eggs at 4c apiece it only takes 2 or 3 extra eggs next fall to offset the higher cost of 8 to 12c more for a better pullet now. When you buy chick, you are buying next winter's egg production. Every pullet you buy here is the daughter of an R.O.P. male of 275 to 340 eggs and a daughter or granddaughter of a R.O.P. hen of 250 to 343 eggs. Officially no Pullorum reactors the last two years. Listener Boycott Would Improve Radio Says FCC's New 34-Year-Old Chairman

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The American public has radio control in the palm of its hand—through listeners' boycotts. That is the challenge of Charles R. Denny, new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

"If you do not like a program, or a commercial, just turn the dial," advises the plain-spoken Denny. "If everybody would do that, the most objectionable features on the radio would not last long."

Thirty-four-year-old Denny—Washington's baby bureau chief—urges listeners not to be bashful about expressing their likes and their dislikes. Broadcasters should be told about their service, whether it is good or bad, according to Denny's way of thinking.

"Broadcasters operate on frequencies which belong to the people," Denny points out in justifying the federal licensing system. "Thus the broadcasters are trustees of the people, and it is fitting that they should be accountable to them."

In becoming the full-fledged chairman after several months in an acting capacity, Denny outlines the policies which will guide the commission in granting of license renewals. He plans to go all the way in supporting the commission's now famous blue book which accused the industry of excessive commercialization.

While Denny accepts the general assumption that the American system of broadcasting is the "best in the world," he says the real question is whether American broadcasting is as good as it can be. Working "at arm's length" with the industry, he is pushing towards that goal.

From the technical standpoint, radio has at least approached perfection through frequency modulation broadcasting, in the opinion of Denny. He is highly enthusiastic over the immediate prospects of FM for the average listener.

Some 700 FM stations are expected to be on the air by the end of this year, he says. There are applications for 300 more pending.

"I think this makes it evident that FM will play a highly important role in the broadcasting of tomorrow," Denny says. "I urge every one who contemplates buying a new receiving set to inform himself fully regarding the status of FM in his community before he chooses his receiver."

Five High Points

The high points of the blue book which will guide the commission in the consideration of applications for license renewals are, according to Denny's interpretation:

1—When an applicant promises to meet certain requirements, he should come reasonably close to fulfillment.

2—Some of the popular listening hours should be devoted to sustaining programs, although the commission does not contend a commercial program cannot be a public service.

3—A balanced number of local programs should be developed to supplement network shows and transcriptions.

4—Radio should stress educational as well as entertainment programs.

5—While advertising does play an indispensable part in our American system of broadcasting, the listeners' interest also should receive ample consideration.

Denny, as the chief spokesman for the government in this field, is going to stand his ground with the radio industry, but improved relations already are apparent. "At least, this man Denny is going to do it with a smile," one radio official commented wryly, referring to the fighting tactics of some of his predecessors.

A brisk, vigorous young man, Denny has demonstrated his willingness to go half-way with the industry. Feuding is not his technique, and neither does he intend to reply to criticism in "purple language." He believes, nevertheless, in straight talk.

YOURS TOMORROW?—A television receiver with large 22-inch screen.

FCC CHIEF—Charles R. Denny.

"The blue book says that American radio is over-commercial," Denny told a recent meeting of broadcasters. "If it is not over-commercial, let us have the facts which prove it is not. If it is, then take steps to eliminate excesses."

"Do not use a sacred constitutional freedom as a shield to ward off charges that your industry is too commercial. I say that as applied to the blue book, the cry 'free speech' is a red herring."

With a flash of humor to temper these remarks, Denny added in poker face fashion, "I take this occasion to deny that the commission is planning to punish large numbers of wayward broadcasters by forcing them to listen to their own stations two hours every day. This would be unconstitutional, as cruel and unusual punishment."

As tangible evidence of his efforts to understand each other's problems, Denny has agreed to sit down around the luncheon table once a month with officials of the National Association of Broadcasters. "Mutual understanding," he believes, offers the best solution.

Partially as a result of the blue book issued last spring, Denny thinks the broadcasting industry has its brooms out. "But it needs to do more sweeping," he adds. "The industry needs to continue its efforts to clean up."

Some stations, according to Denny, still have commercials too long and too frequent. He says some are in bad taste. The controversial singing commercials, however, do not especially arouse Denny. "Some are fairly clever and quite acceptable," he thinks. Despite his criticism of what he considers the weak spots in the broadcasting industry, Denny, himself, is quite a radio fan. He has fancy radio sets at home and at the office. Every morning, before going to work, around 7:30 and 8, he listens to the newscasts.

"News broadcasting has shown tremendous strides in recent years," he declares. "It is one of the finest things in radio."

Denny is quite a sports fan, and he enjoys fights and football games on his television screen. Music programs, both popular and classical, he finds appealing, through the medium of FM, because of the tonal qualities and absence of static.

Being a family man, Denny welcomes the home entertainment provided by radio. The Dennys, with their children, on many an evening, can be found together, listening to the radio, or viewing the television screen at home.

Denny was born in Baltimore but spent his boyhood in Washington and attended public schools here. From Amherst college, he went to Harvard Law School where he was graduated in 1936.

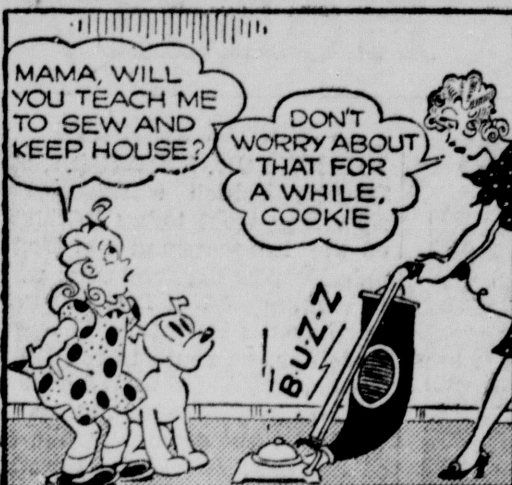

With Justice Department
After two years in a private law firm, his government career started at the department of justice. In 1942, he joined the FCC and in six months, before he was 30, he was its chief counsel.

Denny's personal interest in radio began with his first position in the FCC. He had no engineering background, never tinkered around a home workshop, but his experience at FCC led him to acquire considerable technical knowledge. And, somewhere along the way, he became an avid radio fan, listening to all types of programs.

Denny is a rather small, slight man with energetic movement. He appears to be the wiry type with a great capacity for work. He has dark sleek hair, blue eyes, and strong features.

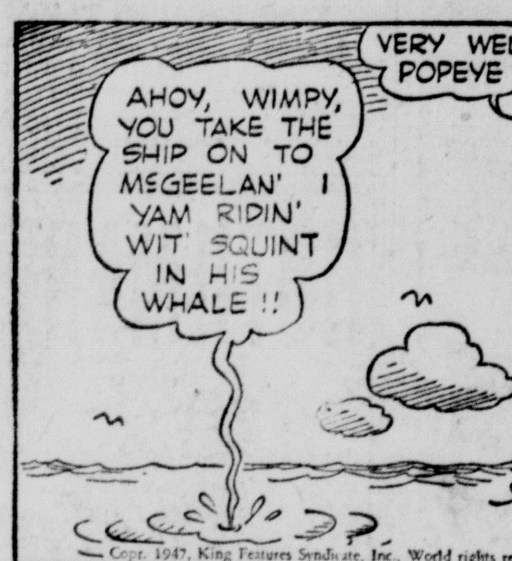

Denny's shrewdness as a lawyer is reflected in his guarded conversation and his cautious phrasing. He is intense about his job and his responsibilities

Today's Horoscope

The person who celebrates a birthday today is spiritually inclined and your interest in religion is absorbing, but your analytical mind will not let you accept any doctrine or follow any sect without understanding it. You are loving and sincere, fond of travel and outdoor sports. The influences for today are adverse. They indicate recklessness, waste, extravagance and splurging. You are inclined to act against your own best interests. Travel is not advised. Do not allow pleasure, whether social or intellectual, to interfere with vocational matters during the next 12 months. Otherwise good-will and help of employers may be jeopardized. Born on this date a child will be sympathetic, humane, inspirational, idealistic, artistic, musical, literary, refined, very intuitive, and generally fortunate, but likely to lose through excessive generosity.

Words of Wisdom

Be discreet in all things, and so render it unnecessary to be mysterious about any.—Welling-ton.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 — One fact about radio is indisputable — you have to be careful what you say on the air because you never can tell that there might be somebody listening.

It happened one afternoon ("Cross Roads Cafe," 6:30 p. m. EST.) when singer Elaine Howard in a burst of ad lib exuberance lamented her constant role as the sweet young thing. "I want to be loved," she said simply.

The phrase staggered over the airwaves, bowled over the eager swains. Next day, the deluge and Miss Howard, not displeasing to the eyes of the sundry respondents, found the mail bag heaped with hearts and offers.

Modestly wrote one youth: "I am handsome, cute and smart." But his courage ran out because he concluded: "Nobody ever answers my letters so I won't tell you my name."

In the pile of Cupid's darts, an honest lad bared his soul and his pocketbook: "you have every right to be loved and I want to be the first candidate. However, I make very little on my job so would it be all right if we went out dutch treat?"

Distraught of the mails, an earnest suitor appeared at the studios one day in search of "the girl who wants to be loved." Here, he said to loveless Elaine and thrust a crate of live squabs in her arms. "Oh," she said appreciatively, "but I don't have an icebox."

The following day came back the gentleman and the squabs... cooked.

Grandpa Jones, heard each week banjo-picking and singing on the "Grand Ole Opry," now has his own show and travels the surrounding states giving personal appearances between Saturday broadcasts. He calls his act "Grandpa" Jones and His Grandchildren. His wife, Ramona, formerly the fiddler with Red Foley and his Cumberland

Valley Boys, plays with him as one of his "grandchildren."

Louise Summa must be an efficient secretary. She's now entering her 13th year as Girl Friday for "Amos 'n' Andy."

New York's recent blizzard almost caused Ralph Locke, Papa David on "Life Can Be Beautiful" serial, to miss a broadcast for the first time in the eight years the program has been aired. Locke lives in Long Island and was driving to the New York studio when his car skidded off the icy road into a ditch. He left it there and hitched a ride from, of all things, a refrigerator truck, and arrived in time to breathlessly speak his first line into the mike.

A farmer, George Moffitt, of Menlo, Iowa, showed a neat profit when he received the outright gift of $1,000 from the sponsor of the "Pot o' Gold" program because he answered his telephone as the call was made by Comedian-emcee Happy Felt on from the ABC Vanderbilt theater studios in New York. Two of the precious three minutes allotted for the famous

County Teachers Urged By Unknown Groups To Take 'Holiday'

TEACHERS HERE NOT EXPECTED TO JOIN MARCH

Anonymous Letters Urging Strike, Trip To Capital Sent Instructors

Some of the more than 210 school teachers in Circleville and Pickaway County, it was learned Friday, have received through the mails letters urging them to join in a five-day work "holiday" to begin Monday with a "march" on the state capitol at Columbus.

The letters are undated and unsigned. Indications Friday were that no teachers in the city or county will take part in the movement aimed to compel the granting of larger salaries to teachers.

School officials, in disclosing they were aware of the circulation of the anonymous letters, expressed the opinion that the "march" and the five-day "holiday", if carried out, would actually hinder rather than help the teachers in obtaining deserved increases in salary.

It was learned that some of the teachers have recently received two such unsigned letters. The first, in the form of a "chain" letter, states that the "only way to get action" on the pay raise proposition is by a "five-day holiday" March 3 to 7 by teachers throughout the state. Each recipient of the letter was asked to copy it at least nine times and mail the copies to teachers in various sections of Ohio.

The second anonymous letter urged each teacher receiving it to join in the "march" on the state capitol on Monday.

Some of the letters were postmarked at Portsmouth and others were postmarked at Peebles, Bainbridge, and Columbus.

Reports from other sections of Ohio indicate that the unsigned letters—which some school officials believe may be part of radical propaganda—have been widely distributed throughout the state.

Officials of the Ohio Education Association, a bona fide organization, issued a statement at Columbus appealing to members of that organization to ignore the anonymous "chain" letters.

55 ARE PRESENT FOR MEETING OF STAR GRANGE

Francis Furniss, master, presided Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Star grange, with fifty-five members and visitors present.

Mrs. Frank Carter, Mt. Pleasant grange, gave a very interesting report of the state grange convention held during December in Columbus. Grange members voted to contribute $15 to the Red Cross campaign, and money was collected to be sent a needy grange family. Mrs. Russell Timmons, juvenile matron, and Mrs. Lyle Davis, lecturer, will be sponsored at the short course March 17 through 21 for "grangers" at Ohio State University.

Lecture hour program was opened with a piano solo "Nodding Daisies" by Miss Margaret Anderson, readings, "A longword Washington" and "A Patriotic Creed" by Miss Mildred Furniss and Miss Joan Hildenbrand. Roll call was answered with patriotic quotations, by Tom Conrad, Clark Dennis, C. M. Reid and Harry Bailey. Humorous discussions followed with both the men and women taking part. Members of the group sang, "Old Glory", and the film, "Pork on the Farm" was shown. The film portrayed how to kill, dress, cut and cure homegrown hogs.

Mrs. Marie Dick, chairman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Rivers, Mrs. Alice Van Fossen and Mrs. Lulu Sheets served refreshments at the close of the program.

FLIGHT TRAINING AVAILABLE TO ENLISTED MEN

Army Air Forces have reopened flight training leading to commission in the U. S. Army Air Forces for the first time since V-J Day. S-Sgt. Robert H. Kuhn in charge of the Army recruiting station in Circleville announced today. Candidates for the training will be drawn from the ranks of Regular Army enlisted men, and will receive 52 weeks flight training, and successful candidates will be commissioned second lieutenants and assigned to flying duty with the Army Air Forces.

Applicants must be unmarried male citizens of the United States between 18 years and 26 years six months old, have four years of high school credits, of excellent character, and must be of sound physique and in excellent health. There is one other requirement, according to Sgt. Kuhn, which he will be able to help the applicant satisfy.

The applicant must be a Regular Army enlisted man assigned to the Army Air Forces. Any young man who is interested can contact the Army recruiting station located at 217 North Court Street or call 106 and the recruiting sergeant will call at his home.

CHIEF McCRADY BACKS ROBINSON PLEA FOR POLICE

Police Chief William F. McCrady voiced approval Friday of the declaration made by Howard G. Robinson, Newark private detective, who told members of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night that the Circleville police department is in urgent need of more men and better equipment.

Chief McCrady cited that the department now has only seven members. He asserted that the department should have "at least 10" men. He also endorsed Detective Robinson's recommendation for two-way radio communication between the police cruiser and police headquarters.

CHARGES DROPPED

Statutory rape charge against Roy Fausnaugh, 41, Maplewood avenue, was quashed in a formal court entry filed Thursday in the office of Pickaway County Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder.

The entry, bearing the signature of Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff, says the nolle prosequi was on the recommendation of County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins who also signed the document.

Fausnaugh was indicted by the grand jury May 8, 1946 on a charge of raping a 14-year-old girl. He pleaded not guilty May 13, 1946 before Emmitt L. Crist, then common pleas judge, and bond was set at $1,000.

Official records in the clerk's office show that on May 16, 1946 the bond was reduced to $500 and Fausnaugh was released.

Atom Control Plan Due To Return To Commission; Bitter Words Fly

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 28—The United Nations security council's approval of the American proposal to send the Baruch atom control plan back to the atomic energy commission is foreshadowed in today's session at Lake Success.

Advance indications are that a majority vote in favor of the United States resolution is certain, provided that debate tactics do not intervene to delay such a decision.

The council's recourse to the proposal as laid down by chief American representative Warren R. Austin would forestall any veto in the near future of the atomic energy commission's report. In present circumstances, this veto was virtually certain through the pronounced opposition to the Baruch plan displayed by Soviet Russia.

Approval by the council today of the American offer automatically would short-circuit the 12 amendments to the Baruch plan submitted by Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko, some of which in effect nullified the most important provisions of the atomic code.

Diplomatic sources pointed out that in effect the deadlock on disarmament and atom control thus will have been solved through a makeshift compromise whereby both Russia and the United States have won a partial victory. If the American resolution is approved, then the Baruch plan gets renewed and broadened immediate consideration outside the council and the latter nominates the Russian-sponsored disarmament commission which can deal only with conventional weapons and armaments.

For today's session, observers predict a somewhat calmer meeting than the several hours of acrid debate and procedural wrangling which marked yesterday's council over the Corfu channel mining incident.

Britain's delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan once more flung bitter charges of guilt at Albania and branded the mining of Corfu channel as "murder." He dis-

Great Britain Wants U. S. Troops In Greece

WHITE HOUSE IS SILENT ON PLAN TO POLICE AREA

British Leader Admits His Country Wants Americans To Relieve Tommies

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — Authoritative sources today confirmed the London disclosure that Britain has asked the United States to occupy Greece, but emphasized that no official action has been taken.

Besides occupation by American troops, it was learned that Britain has suggested a U. S. loan to Greece in the interests of "political and economic tranquility."

LONDON, Feb. 28—The British government today disclosed a desire to withdraw its military forces from Greece and hand the burden over to the United States.

A foreign office spokesman admitted that while no decision yet has been reached, Britain would like to pull its armed forces out of the Balkan peninsula.

It was established earlier that approaches had been made to the United States to assume an increased share of the costs of maintaining an army in Greece because of Britain's perilous financial and economic situation at home, coupled with a manpower shortage.

The spokesman pointed out that the present situation inside Greece — a nation wracked by virtual civil war — is not sufficiently stable to warrant British troops leaving without notice and trusting in the Greek army to control the situation.

Questioned as to whether Britain therefore is aiming at an American occupation force or a joint Anglo-American military control, the spokesman said: "Discussions are proceeding. I cannot say more."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The White House was non-committal today in the face of a disclosure in London that Great Britain has asked the United States to take over occupation of Greece.

A British foreign office spokesman revealed that his government desires to withdraw British troops from the Balkan trouble spot and hand the burden to the United States.

A White House spokesman said he knew nothing of such reports, but he did not deny them.

London papers also said President Truman has been informed that Britain cannot carry the economic load of Greece much longer.

The London Standard said that this was the reason for the meeting of Mr. Truman's state and congressional foreign leaders yesterday.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The dollar pork chop is on its way back but you may have to go to the stockyards to see it.

My butcher says "I will carry only choice mink chops until further notice."

"I don't know who's crazier—the people who ran up the price again at the stock yards or the people who bought."

But I do know that somebody hasn't been reading the law of supply and demand—and if there's one thing there isn't any demand for it's high priced pork.

Anyway it's good to know that the war assets administration has 25,000 washing machines to sell.

We were well-supplied with washing machines—the original plan was to catch Hitler and put him through the wringer.

Hoover Urges Caution In Giving Foreign Relief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Herbert Hoover told congress today that America must give further aid to starving millions overseas but should "stop, look and listen" in the matter of foreign relief.

The Republican ex-president, appearing before the house foreign affairs committee, asked early appropriation of the 350 million dollars requested by President Truman for additional aid to the hungry in Europe, but said its repayment should be made obligatory.

He cautioned: "In their misery, the people abroad believe our possibilities of giving are unlimited."

"They do not realize that our taxes, federal and local, are now two years after the war, still taking about 35 per cent of our national income."

"It is in the interest not only of ourselves but of the whole world that we stop, look and listen."

Hoover recommended that a single administrator should be appointed to coordinate relief programs for the various needy countries.

He told the committee that America has "no desire to fail to do our full part in alleviating the starvation of women and children."

Hoover warned, however, that "at some point American patience and humane action is likely to become exhausted."

The ex-president, whose report to Mr. Truman on his economic mission to ravaged central Europe was made public last night, made his first appearance on Capitol Hill in several years. He declared:

"In my view any nation receiving relief should obligate itself to pay the cost thereof, either to the United States and other donors or preferably to a fund to be established by the United Nations for future famine relief."

ONE KILLED AS BRITISH BOARD REFUGEE SHIP

JERUSALEM, Feb. 28 — One person was reported killed and several others were wounded today when a British naval party intercepted a Jewish refugee ship near Haifa and began removing the unauthorized immigrants in landing craft.

The vessel, the Haim Arlosoroff, ran aground on a sand bar at Haifa while a boarding party of British seamen were rounding up the 1,300 Jews aboard for removal to shore.

A number of the immigrants jumped overboard and attempted to swim to safety.

The high court of Palestine halted the immediate transfer of the immigrants to Cyprus in granting an order permitting the ship to remain at Haifa pending a hearing on applications for writs of habeas corpus.

PORTER KILLED WHEN PULLMAN CAR CRACKS UP

Runaway Coach Crashed Into Bank Near Scene Of Red Arrow Wreck

GALLITZIN, PA., Feb. 28—A porter was killed and ten persons were injured today when a runaway Pennsylvania railroad pullman car crashed into an embankment after a wild, three-and-a-half mile flight down a mountain near Gallitzin.

The crash occurred on "curve 109", less than a mile from Bennington curve where ten days ago the Pennsylvania's Red Arrow was wrecked, killing 24 persons and injuring 126.

Railroad officials said the Pullman car, at the end of the 13-car westbound Sunshine Special, broke loose while the train was stopped at the top of the mountain to take off one of its two locomotives.

A railroad spokesman said the porter probably died a hero. He apparently was on the rear of the car, attempting to halt its wild flight by using a handbrake, when it left the rails and crashed into the embankment.

The runaway jumped from track 1, careened down the slope until it rammed into the embankment, and then rested across tracks 3 and 4, blocking westbound traffic.

The injured and the porter, L. Keys, Houston, Tex., were picked up by the eastbound Jeffersonian and taken to Altoona general hospital.

There were but 12 passengers in the car at the time of the wreck. Ten had been admitted to the hospital several hours later, but no report of their condition was available pending further examination.

First reports said some were (Continued on Page Two)

GOP COMMITTEE STILL UNDECIDED ON DEBT PAYING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The senate GOP policy committee agreed today that reduction of President Truman's budget should be handled to permit an income tax cut, but reached no final conclusion on the key issue of payments on the public debt.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, policy chairman, made the announcement following a meeting of the Republican leaders.

Taft said the budget problem, up for final settlement in the senate today, was discussed at length and that "everybody favored a tax cut". He added: "Nobody wants to do anything to prevent that, but we reached no final conclusion on the question of the public debt."

Two new compromises were being considered by GOP leaders, however, in an effort to beat off the Knowland amendment which threatens the entire Republican tax program.

Circleville Native, 101, Dies At Puyallup, Wash.

News of the death of Mrs. Phebe Asher, 101, a native of Circleville, which occurred Feb. 9 at Puyallup, Wash., was received Friday in Circleville.

Mrs. Asher was born Jan. 23, 1846 in Circleville, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gardner.

At the age of 7 she moved with her parents to Iowa in a covered wagon. At the close of the Civil War the family moved from Iowa to Silver Creek, Neb., where her father operated a "half way house", which was a stopping place for pioneers westward bound. It was there that she married Charles Asher in 1874. Widowed by the death of her husband in 1883 Mrs. Asher reared her family of six on the homestead at Silver Creek.

The widely known centenarian went to Washington on a visit more than 43 years ago and remained in that state. She was a resident of Puyallup for more than 40 years.

Her activities were numerous. She was a member of the WCTU, Ladies of the G. A. R., the Methodist church, and the Women's Society of Christian Service.

On her 100th birthday anniversary Mrs. Asher was made an honorary member of the Puyallup Chamber of Commerce. In her later years she made 13 long trips to attend national conventions of the G. A. R. The last such journey was made after she was past 90.

Services were held at Puyallup and she was buried in a cemetery in that city. Her survivors include a daughter, Mrs. A. B. Gorman, in whose Puyallup home she died; a son, L. E. Asher, Puyallup; and three grandchildren.

were closed by order of the city board of education when a "state of emergency" was declared in what Superintendent Bapst terms a "deplorable mess."

Boulevard Lights To Be In Operation By May 31

Delivery of the metal poles for the 37-unit boulevard lighting system in Circleville has been promised for not later than May 1 and, barring unforeseen obstacles, the new system will be installed and lighted within 30 days thereafter—or about Memorial Day, May 30.

This announcement was made Friday by Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville district manager for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company.

Speed-up of the delivery of the necessary steel six-sided poles was accomplished by a trip Thursday to Canton where the standards are being manufactured.

Mr. Gilmore, City Safety Director Thurman I. Miller, and John Magill, president of the Chamber of Commerce, left by automobile Thursday morning for Columbus where they were joined by George Greisbach, Cincinnati representative of the Line Material company which is supplying the Circleville boulevard light poles. The quartet drove to Canton, arriving there about noon.

Following a downtown luncheon with officials of the Union Metal Manufacturing company,

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The American Farm Bureau federation called on congress today for enactment of a 10-point program of "corrective measures" to curb "defiance" by unions and "protect the public's rights in labor disputes."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the organization of more than 1,128,000 farm families, told the house labor committee that farmers are "deeply concerned over the absence of a sound national labor relations policy."

WHEAT PRICES HIT NEW HIGH, $2.52 BUSHEL

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—The bullish grain market went into high gear again today.

At mid-session March wheat was up nine cents and sold at $2.52 a bushel, a new 27-year high.

Former President Herbert Hoover's dismal report on European food shortages and his recommendation that huge stocks of grain be shipped abroad to prevent starvation, motivated the upward surge of prices on the Chicago board of trade.

All grain futures hit new seasonal highs in active trading. May wheat was up 6-1/2 cents a bushel, corn futures were up as much as 4 cents, and oats almost 3 cents.

BUFFALO SCHOOL PEACE FADES

Teachers Not Satisfied With Dewey's Committee Report On New Salaries

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 28—Leaders of the Buffalo teachers strike which has closed all of the city's public schools, were prepared today to carry on their strike until their pay demands are assured.

Hopes to settle the strike so the 71,000 children involved could return to classes Monday faded when Raymond J. Ast, president of the Buffalo teachers federation rescinded an earlier statement that the salary report of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's special committee on education would be acceptable to the striking teachers.

Dr. Arvid J. Burke, research director of the state teachers' association, charged that under the Dewey committee report nearly one-third of Buffalo's 3,000 teachers would get no raise in pay next year. He said that 1,156 teachers would get raises of (Continued on Page Two)

STU HOLCOMB IS NAMED PURDUE FOOTBALL COACH

LAFAYETTE, IND., Feb. 2 — Purdue university officials announced today that Stuart K. Holcomb, assistant coach at Army, has signed a five-year contract as head football coach at Purdue University.

Holcomb, who had been at West Point for the past three seasons, succeeds Cecil Isbell, who resigned recently to become coach of the Baltimore Colts in the All-America conference.

Holcomb, a former Ohio State grid star, is 36 years old and has had 15 years of collegiate coaching experience at five different institutions.

At Ohio State, as a fullback and halfback in 1929, 1930 and 1931, he won all-Western conference honors.

Holcomb coached four years at Findlay college and five seasons at Muskingum college where he won the Ohio conference title in 1939.

He went to Washington and Jefferson for one year, then returned to Ohio as head coach at Miami university in 1942.

AAF Sees Proof Big Planes Will Have Escorts To Almost Any Place

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 — The Army Air Force P-82 "Betty Jo" established a new world's record for sustained flight by a fighter plane today when it streaked from Honolulu to New York.

The official flying time was 14 hours and 32 minutes.

Piloted by Lieut. Col. Robert Thacker, El Centro, Calif., with First Lieut. John M. Ard, Inglewood, Calif., sitting in the plane's second fuselage, the remarkable craft negotiated the 5,000 miles at speeds well beyond 300 miles an hour.

The plane landed with only a few gallons left, of the 2,250 gallons of gas it lifted into the air at Honolulu late yesterday afternoon.

Hundreds of spectators, newsmen and cameramen, and the wives of the two young fliers, were on hand at LaGuardia field to cheer the completion of the mission.

The P-82 is the only propeller-driven fighter craft now being made for the Army Air Forces.

It is a Siamese-twin version of the famous North American P-51 Mustang.

Col. Thacker had planned to drop his four auxiliary wing tanks, two in the Pacific and two near Laramie, Wyo. The plane landed, however, at LaGuardia field with three still attached.

Thacker, still wearing his "Mae West" and oxygen mask, pushed back the plastic cowl of the P-82 as he brought it to a stop, and grinned broadly at the crowd.

Looking down into the mob, he suddenly shouted, "Hey, make room there, that's my wife."

Simultaneously, Lieut. Ard jumped out on his wing and yelled "hi" when he, too spotted his wife.

The history-making flight did not interfere with the gallantry of the two fliers. They had brought orchids and Hawaiian leis as gifts for their wives.

A spanking tail-wind helped the speed of the plane throughout the night as it swept across the largest open water area on the earth, between Honolulu and the California coast, in seven hours and one minute.

Their route thereafter traversed Reno, Nev.; Ogden, Utah; Rock Springs, Wyo.; Sioux City, Ia.; Rockford, Ill.; Windsor, Ont.; Erie, and Wilkes Barre, Pa.

The entire flight was made on oxygen.

The flight was hailed by air force officials as proof that even such very long ranged super-bombers, as the six-engine consolidated B-36, and the eight-jet Northrup flying wing, will in the (Continued on Page Two) future have fighter cover where ever they might be forced to fly.

Thacker's powerful fighter, laden with 2,215 gallons of gasoline, lifted her unprecedented weight from Hickam field at 3:03 p. m. Thursday. (8:33 p. m. EST).

The "Betty Jo" roared across the coast line of the continental United States early today and streaked eastward.
Lt. Col. Robert E. Thacker, pilot of the twin-engine fighter, crossed the coastline near Point Arena, Cal., at 12:34 a. m. (3:24 p. m. EST) a scant minute more than seven hours after the take off from Hickam field in Honolulu.

Twenty-six minutes later at 1 a. m. Thacker reported the "Betty Jo" flying past Reno, in a northerly direction from the Nevada divorce capital.

Thacker, Ward and the "Betty Jo" are "guinea pigs" on the flight, which is being made to test numerous devices for long-range fighter flights, one of the biggest headaches of the Army Air Forces.

The twin-fuselage plane was constructed from two P-52 Mustang fighters and equipped with a reclining chair so that the man not handling the controls could rest. The resting pilot, however, has to keep an ear on radio communications and an eye on navigation problems.

The takeoff of the thrice-postponed flight was witnessed at Hickam field by territorial governor Ingram Stainback and Mayor John Wilson of Honolulu.

RASCHIG KEEPS JOB AS PUBLIC WORKS DIRECTOR

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—The state supreme court ruled today that Frank L. Raschig, Cincinnati, is entitled to hold office as state public works director for a term of one year from July 22, 1946.

The court said that the statutes called for appointment of a public works superintendent for a term of neither less nor more than one year. Therefore, it held that former Gov. Lausche's appointment of J. L. McCormick of Ravenna, on Jan. 11, was illegal since there was no vacancy.

Governor Lausche appointed Raschig last July 22 under the impression the term would expire Jan. 1. However, when McCormick was named, Raschig refused to give up the office, contending he was entitled to a full year's term.

McCormick, a Democrat and former state highway division engineer, contested Raschig's claim and ask the supreme court to determine who should hold the office.

Raschig, a Republican, was a holdover appointment from the administration of former Gov. John W. Bricker. He was reappointed by Lausche for a one-year term when Lausche took office in 1945 but then was not named again until last July.

PRESSURE PUT ON GOVERNOR BRINGS REBUKE

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—A gentle slap on the wrist was administered to pressure groups by Governor Herbert today.

After hearing a 20-man delegation of rural educators plead with him for additional state aid to schools, Herbert promised he would do what he could for schools but then added:

"I'm spending all of my days listening to people and trying to get something done at night. I've heard all this before; you're telling me nothing new. Understand me, though, I'll listen as long as anyone has anything to say."

Herbert then explained that the problem of increasing appropriations "is no different than yours". He continued:
"It's simply a question of how much money we have coming in and where we can spend it to best advantage. We are confronted with many disparate needs."

"But I'm satisfied that when this legislature goes home, the schools and teachers of Ohio will know they have been helped by the state of Ohio. How much, remains to be solved."

O'Neal recommended compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes threatening the national welfare.

At the same time, an independent union leader testified before the senate labor committee that "the time has now come to regulate labor relations in the public interest." The witness was Walter W. Cenerazzo, head of the American Watch Workers union.

Cenerazzo, whose union recently was denied an AFL charter because of the existence of another jewelry union in the federation, blasted AFL president William Green and CIO chief Philip Murray.

He declared that "the house of lords of the American labor movement" are precluded from giving honest opinions on measures to bring industrial peace if they desire to "perpetuate" themselves in office.

DILTZ, CLIFTON FACE TRIAL ON LEGION CHARGE

Accused of the $1,300 burglary of the American Legion club, 136 East Main street, Orin Diltz, 24, and George Clifton, 23, will go on trial jointly, March 24, before a jury in Pickaway county common pleas court.

This announcement was made Friday by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff following a conference with County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins, Special Prosecutor Tom A. Renick, and counsel for the two accused men.

The robbery of the Legion occurred the night of Nov. 9, 1946. Diltz is now in the Ohio Penitentiary and Clifton is at liberty under $25,000 bond.

A jury on Feb. 5 found Diltz guilty of grand larceny in the looting of the parked automobile of Vaden Couch and he was sentenced to one to seven years in the state prison.

A jury on Feb. 22 acquitted Clifton of the $333 burglary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars club, 217 North Court street.

Early in January the grand jury returned five indictments against Diltz and four against Clifton.

SOLONS STUDY FILES ON SHIPS LOANED TO REDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The house merchant marine committee today studied correspondence between the U. S. and Russia concerning Soviet failure to return 95 lend-lease ships which was produced after the group issued a subpoena for State Secretary Marshall.

At the same time, Rep. Alvin Weichel (R) Ohio, chairman of a sub-committee looking into the matter of the lend-lease vessels, pressed Marshall to inquire about the ship problem when he goes to Moscow next month.

Weichel, who had issued the subpoena for the secretary, said following a telephone conversation with Marshall that the secretary did not indicate just what action would be taken on the congressman's request.

The subpoena was recalled by Rep. Bradley (R) Mich., chairman of the full merchant marine committee, when undersecretary of state Dean Acheson submitted to him three notes from the U. S. to Russia and the Soviet reply which previously had been termed "unsatisfactory."

Acheson said there had been no further word from Russia despite two more urgent American notes.

only $5 to $35 a year. He said the report favored beginners and new teachers at the expense of experienced ones.

Gov. Dewey's committee, in a report made public in Albany, recommended, effectively July 1, a pay scale of $2,200 to $4,510 with $2,400 to $4,710 for teachers with master's degree.

The striking teachers of Buffalo had asked a starting minimum of $2,400.

Last night on the radio Ast said the salary schedule recommended by the governor's committee appears to be "attractive" on the surface.

A demonstration was staged at city hall by 200 students of Veterans high school. They marched to city hall to urge Mayor Bernard J. Dowd to press for a quick settlement of the strike.

Mayor Dowd consented to receive three spokesmen for the group and proceeded to rebuke them. He told them they had no right "to come here unannounced and create a spectacle."

The trio urged the mayor to "force the issue and get the teachers back so we can finish our education."

They explained that if they lost one week of schooling, it was equivalent to two weeks in a regular high school, inasmuch as they were on an accelerated schedule.

First Changes In Ohio Congress Districts In 40 Years Is Proposed

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28.—The first changes in the boundaries of Ohio's 22 congressional districts in 40 years may take place in 1951.

Sen. Carl D. Sheppard (R-Akron) proposed an amendment to the Ohio constitution which would pattern the congressional districts on the same automatic plan by which state senatorial districts are now determined.

If his joint resolution is passed by three-fifths vote of both house and senate, the proposal will be placed before the voters in the 1948 general election.

Approval of the voters would set the reapportionment machinery in action. In 1951—the year after the regular ten-year federal census—a five-man board would divide the state up into districts and do away with the present office of congressman-at-large.

The board, composed of the governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house, would divide the state into the number of districts to which Ohio is entitled. The division shall be as nearly as possible on a population basis.

Sheppard, chairman of the senate elections committee, explained that the present district boundaries were established by the legislature in 1911.

For the last several sessions, Sheppard attempted to persuade the legislature to re-apportion the congressional districts without success. Now he proposes to do by constitutional amendment what the solons refused to do by legislative enactment.

Sheppard pointed out that one southern Ohio district now has 165,000 population, while the Cleveland 22nd district—that of Mrs. Frances P. Bolton—has 700,000 residents.

"Each voter in the southern district thus has three times as much power in the federal congress as does the voter in Mrs. Bolton's district," Sheppard stated.

Not only would the state be re-apportioned in 1951, but each ten years thereafter, although in the subsequent divisions there would be less discretion on the part of the apportioning board.

As the number of congressmen to which the state is entitled is increased or decreased, the largest districts would be divided or the smaller districts joined to provide new districts. This specific change would be administered by a three-member board composed of the governor, secretary of state and state auditor—the same three officials who now determine the state senatorial districts on the same plan.

FIVE INDIANS STILL UNSIGNED FOR '47 SEASON

TUCSON, ARIZ., Feb. 28 — Only five Cleveland Indians remained unsigned today for the Tribe's 1947 season.

Heading the list is big Heinz Becker, veteran first-baseman. Others include catcher Tom Jordan, outfielder George Case and pitchers Bryant Stephens and "Jittery Joe" Berry. None of the five figures prominently in Tribal plans.

Manager Lou Boudreau once more sent his charges through a brisk workout at the Indians' Tucson training camp yesterday.

A sparkling infield combination of, reading from first to third, Eddie Robinson, Joe Gordon, Manager Lou and Kenny Keltner highlighted the session. Right - fielder Hank Edwards joined practice for the first time and presented a sharp hitting display.

First intra-squad game of the season will be held tomorrow with newsmen serving as umpires and the Cleveland coaching staff handling the scoring and grandstand announcing.

TIGERS LOSE IN TOURNAMENT TO M'KINLEY FIVE

Circleville Ends Season With 50-39 Defeat By Columbus Team

Circleville high school's basketball season was over Friday, following a 50-39 defeat by Linden McKinley Thursday night in the Class A tournament at Delaware.

Height again was a factor in the Tigers' defeat. Three tall Linden boys and a couple of fast "shorties" proved too good at scoring and Circleville again lost its first tourney start.

The Tigers put up a good battle all the way but were close only in the first period, which ended 17-14 in favor of Linden after the score had been tied four times and Circleville had led five times. The Tigers trailed 20-29 at the half. In the third quarter they outscored McKinley 11 to 9, Linden leading 33-31 at the end of the period.

Bob McCoy and Paul Smallwood scored nine points each for Circleville. Long Bob Showalter and "shorty" Ed Hanawalt had 12 each for the Columbus school.

Seventeen personal fouls were called on Circleville, Bob Steele going out early in the fourth period. Nine personals were called on Linden. The Tigers made five and missed four foul shots. Linden made 10 of 20 tries.

In other games at Delaware Columbus Central defeated East 45-34; Bexley edged Columbus North, 54-52 and Newark trounced Westerville 74-39.

SEEDED TEAMS BATTLE RENEWED AT TOURNAMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—An old familiar controversy cropped up again in state scholastic basketball ranks today.

Discontent was voiced in many sectors over procedure followed in seeding outstanding ball clubs. At issue were tournament plans that placed schools from a single city or county in the same bracket.

Ohio High School Athletic association rules state:

"As many teams in sectional and district tournaments must be seeded as there will be qualifiers for the next higher tournament. In the B sectional tournaments, teams from the same counties should not be required to play one another the first round."

However, with both upper and lower bracket winners qualified for advanced play in many tournaments, some communities found only one of their teams able to survive.

Hamilton Journal sports editor Bill Moeller recorded a particularly strong protest. Pointing out that Hamilton Public and Central Catholic, both seeded but not into different brackets, would inevitably collide unless eliminated earlier, Moeller charged shenanigans on the part of tournament officials.

"It appears that the Dayton tournament officials are determined to get a Dayton team into the regionals," Moeller charged. "So they refused to seed Hamilton and Hamilton Catholic into different brackets."

Canton Lehman Coach Jim Robinson also insisted seeded quintets from the same city should be separated automatically. He conceded that this year's drawings worked out alright for Lehman and McKinley but added that "they might not have."

MAYER HORSES SELL AT AVERAGE OF $25,891 EACH

ARCADIA, CAL., Feb. 28—Louis B. Mayer, one of the highest-salaried men in the world, cried unashamedly as he walked away from Santa Anita race track early today.

Mayer, who sponsored the most fabulous auction sale in the history of the turf for the number of horses sold, admitted he was not happy and he didn't care who knew it.

He had just watched 60 head of his race empire put under the hammer at the Arcadia race plant, where turfmen from all over the world had come to bid for the assortment of horseflesh.

The Mayer stable, which sold at the rate of 15 per hour, increased Mayer's fortune by $1,553,500, for an average of $25,891 per head.

Stepfather, three-year-old son of Beau Pere who is entered in four $100,000 races this semester, was bought by Harry M. Warner, a movie competitor of Mayer, for $200,000 cash. It was the highest price ever paid for a horse in training.

Busher, the champion money-winning mare of all time, was sold to Mayer's personal attorney, Neil S. McCarthy, for $135,000.

REDS HOPE NEW MANAGER, NEW PLAYERS GOOD

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28—A new manager and a flock of promising rookies were the chief assets of the Cincinnati Reds today as they prepared to open their 1947 Spring training camp at Tampa, Fla.

The entire Red squad is due to report tomorrow at the Florida conditioning camp.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati fans heard background strains of a familiar "strong pitching but weak hitting" refrain and wondered if Manager Johnny Neun could supply an answer to the annual Redleg problem.

ATLANTA WINS EASILY FROM MT. VERNON FIVE

Joe Drake Takes Scoring Honors In Westerville Tournament Play

Atlanta became the first Pickaway county team in two years to win a district tournament game when the Perry township five blasted Mt. Vernon St. Vincent 49-23 in the Class B tourney at Westerville.

Joe Drake, Atlanta's high scoring forward, won scoring honors of the evening with 23 points as his team ran over the Mt. Vernon team. He had able assistance from Joe Hobbie, who scored 11.

Perry started slowly and St. Vincent took an 8-7 edge at the end of the first period. In the second quarter the Atlanta boys poured in 16 points to take a 23-12 halftime margin. In the third quarter Warren Hobbie's boys ran the score to 35-17.

As the result of their Thursday night victory, the Perry boys will play at 7 p. m. Saturday against the winner of Friday night's Pleasant - Holy Rosary game.

In other games Thursday night at Westerville Grove City, which eliminated New Holland, won 41-30 over Claridon; Groveport trounced Bremen, 52-37; Sunbury margined University, 38-32; Granville eliminated Lancaster St. Mary's 39-32.

Friday night Monroe, third place Pickaway county team, plays its first game in the tournament, meeting Marion St. Mary.

FOOTBALL CAMPS VOTED DOWN BY OHSAA MEMBERS

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—Ohio high schools in a referendum voted against allowing Summer football camps, state high school athletic commissioner Harold Emswiler announced Wednesday.

As rules now stand, teams not having Spring football practice may begin practice August 20, but may not maintain a football camp before Sept. 1.

At the same time, Emswiler revealed that the annual state Spring meets had been moved back one week. This year, they will be held in Columbus May 30 and 31, instead of May 24.

Class A baseball teams will have a regional tourney before eight finalists come to Columbus for the state finals. The class B schedule will remain as in former years.

Somerset Holy Trinity was accepted as a member of the association, Emswiler also announced.

NEW CHAMP FOR CLASS B SURE

Farmer Eliminated; 25-Game Record Of Belmont Five Snapped; Middies Win

By International News Service
Ohio high school Class B tournament survivors had a vacant throne to shoot at today following defeat last night of Farmer's defending champions.

The Defiance county school, with a pre-tourney record of 18 victories and five defeats, bowed to Delta of Fulton county, 31 to 30, at Leipsic.

Meanwhile, Middletown opened defense of its Class A championship by roundly thumping Xenia Central, 40 to 18. The victory was made more impressive by the fact that the Middies lost a one-point decision to Central during the regular season.

Still another team was lopped off the undefeated list in Class B as Belmont was toppled by Adena, 70 to 48. Adena, defending district champion, shattered a 25-game winning streak for Belmont.

In the same tournament at Lafferty, high scoring Bill Pittinger of Jefferson-Union rang up 30 points to bring his season's total to 668. His team lost, however, to Somerton, 60-57 in an overtime.

Bettsville kept its unbeaten skein going at Bascom, whipping Ridgeway, 62 to 27, for No. 24 in a row.

Four perfect records are due to be tested tonight. In Class A, Upper Arlington (18-0) plays Delaware (5-16), while Bryan (16-0) meets Montpelier (7-12).

Frazesburg, with 26 straight triumphs, makes its second Class B tourney start at Zanesville against Zanesville St. Nicholas. At Waverly, West Union pits its 21-0 mark against Lynchburg.

Both Hamilton Catholic, at Dayton, and Findlay, on its home court, racked up their 16th Class A victory yesterday against a pair of losses. Hamilton defeated Troy, 41 to 25, while Findlay whipped St. Marys, 47 to 30.

Newark's Wildcats, three times state champs in past years romped to their 20th win in 23 starts, 74 to 39, over Westerville at Delaware.

Class A headlines tonight include: Hamilton Public-vs. Piquette; East Liverpool vs. Wells; Euclid Shore vs. Lorain; Cincinnati Walnut Hills vs. Cincinnati Vocational, and Norwalk vs. Tiffin Calvert.

At Westerville, two Class B titans collide when Caledonia (21-1) tackles Newark St. Francis (23-2). Once-beaten Yorkville and Strasburg meet Cadiz and Dennison St. Marys at Lafferty and Dover, respectively.

WHERE IT HURTS

ONE ARGUMENT, usually unspoken but none the less important to a few senators who want to defeat David E. Lilienthal's appointment to the atomic commission is "He never carried a precinct." This is back of the suggestions that some one like ex-Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin be substituted for Lilienthal. La Follette is a good man whose departure from the Senate is Wisconsin's and the nation's loss. He, however, lacks the training needed in a technical post.

The Senate is always like that. Nominate a former member for a federal job, and he is confirmed pronto. Even a Bilbo, if named to the Supreme Court, might get by through the operation of the custom known as "senatorial courtesy". But to see a well-paid and conspicuous public office go to a man of no political experience really hurts the feelings of some senators, no matter how good the qualifications of the man appointed.

DO WE WANT TO LIVE?

WE SMUG earthlings have often flattered ourselves that this is "the best of all possible worlds." And it might really be so—if we had sense and decency enough to cooperate steadfastly in ways really calculated to cooperate with the Almighty in a convincing demonstration of human decency.

But what happens? All of a sudden that factor is forgotten, and up jumps again an atomic scientist boasting of means whereby this infatuated world can produce and utilize bombs a thousand times more powerful than those used at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. And we can see and hear again the glee with which thousands of well-meaning but reckless citizens, instead of seeking genuine peace and thus perpetuating the human race on this planet, set about to blow up the world.

Surely it is time to abandon such reckless insanity.

WORLD WATCHES BRITAIN

ENGLAND'S present economic difficulties are due to complex causes. It is patently unfair to put the blame for all of them on the nationalization program of the Labor Government. Nevertheless the most ardent socialist hardly would claim public ownership in Britain a success.

In democracies, if they are to remain democracies, it is hard to find enough men so experienced both in state craft and business that they can manage simultaneously a country's commerce and its politics. As government controls increase, private operators are pushed farther under the domination of a growing army of public servants in line for political appointment but seldom qualified by business training.

The world is watching to see whether England solves her problems through a continuing socialization, or a gradual turn back toward democracy's free enterprise.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The Republicans are skating on thin ice in their budget slashing, and know it. But they can safely make it, and the goal justifies the risk.

As a matter of fact, the ice is thinner than the arguing senators know or indicate in their public statements. From a top finance authority on a recent trip, I learned what few of the best informed Washingtonians realize—namely, nearly $100 billions of the federal debt are in short term paper. His calculation from federal reserve board statistics indicated $93 billions were obligations of duration under a year. My investigation concludes that two months ago the treasury had outstanding about $17 billions in bills, $29 billions in certificates of indebtedness, $10 billions in notes, nearly $6 billions in tax and savings notes, about $25 billions in special issues and $1½ billions in non-interest bearing debt. This totals above $88 billions.

Whatever the exact figure may be, if money again becomes tight, or any emergency develops, the treasury would have an unwelcome financing problem on its hands. A building boom might absorb money to an embarrassing extent, for instance.

Prudence would seem to require the refunding of a larger portion of small interest short term holding into long term bonds. Although the long terms might cost the treasury twice as much in what the books show as interest payments, actually the government recaptures considerable interest and the cost is far less burdensome than advertised.

The press seemed to have an inkling of something like this situation. A survey of newspaper opinion the second week in February before the issue became hot showed a surprising total of only 7 percent of the newspapers behind the proposed house cut of $6 billions. The Republican house move was disapproved by 23 percent, 13 percent of the papers offered mixed comment, while the remainder was silent.

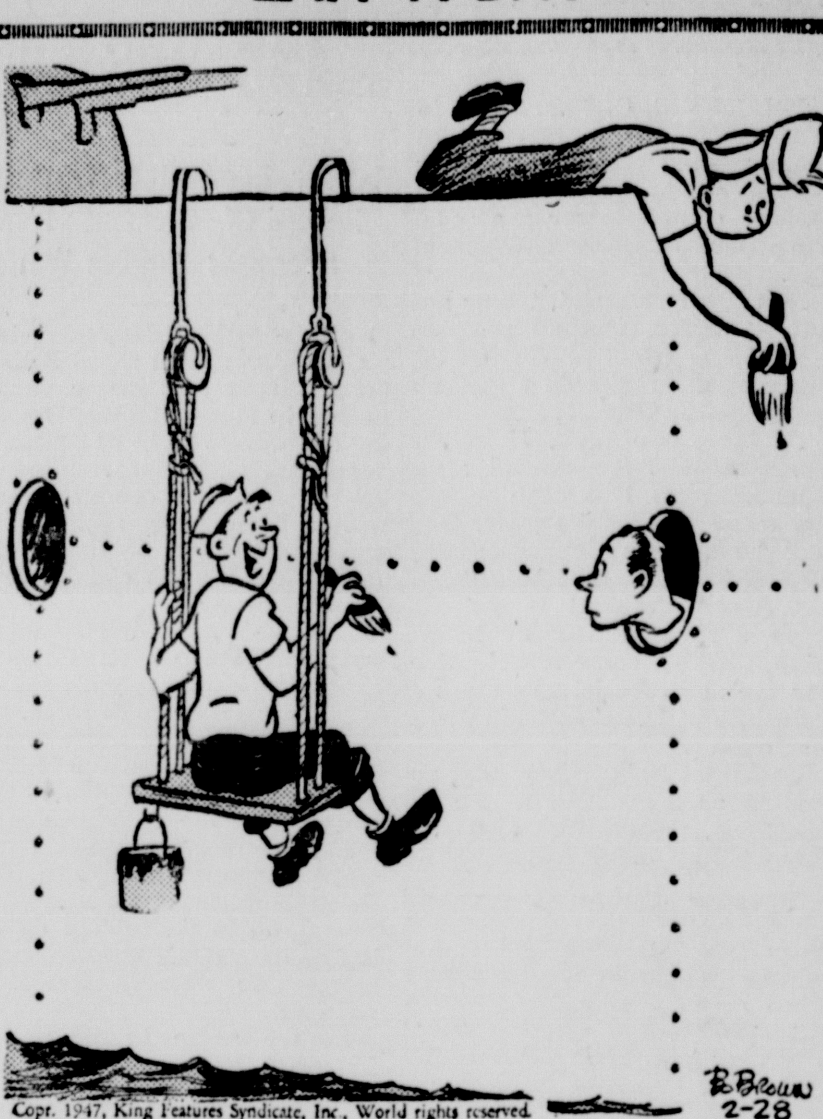

What the press and public do not apparently understand is that the $6 billions figure is only a little above 17 percent of the budget. Anyone who knows Washington must realize that a substantial amount can prudently be cut from any budget without damage to necessary government activity. Both press and public have been impressed, for instance, by the testimony of the generals that national defense would be "immobilized" (they say the Navy would be) by a cut of only 10 percent in their $11.3 billions. No one seems to notice figures of Senator Byrd (whose figures on any subject have never been successfully disputed to my knowledge) showing the armed forces budget proposes to spend $3,100 per man as compared with $1,306 in 1940. This is for personal maintenance alone and does not include munitions or engines of war.

Any citizen who has been in the armed forces knows 10 percent can be cut from general military expenditures nearly any time without delivering the nation into the hands of its enemies. Privately some Army and Navy authorities concede such a cut would only eliminate extravagances.

Byrd, who has made the study of government waste his foremost work, was not even a member of the joint committee recommending budget cuts. His independent non-partisan position, however, has given him a valuable objectivity. He says somewhere around $5 to $6 billions can and should be cut, but he is against the proposed similar 20 percent cut in taxes hurriedly, saying this should be delayed at least until the coming July.

Infra-Red Treatment Helps Many Different Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

If our sense of wonder had not been dulled by the vast accumulation of modern scientific miracles, we would doubtless be a little awestruck at the fact that mere rays of light can be used for healing purposes. Certainly the man of a hundred years ago would have been, in the first place, light to him was light and nothing more. He did not know that it is composed of rays of many different kinds, some of them, strangely enough, completely invisible to the human eye.

One of these invisible light components is known today as infra-red and we have machines for producing infra-red rays in quantities. They are valuable in the treatment of various diseases because they are able to produce heat within the tissues. The chief effects of this heat are to dilate the blood vessels and speed up the circulation. This, in turn, increases the activity of the white blood cells in getting rid of waste materials and germs, relaxes spasm and tension, and relieves pain due to action on the nerve endings.

Infra-Red Treatment
Thus, according to Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald of North Carolina, infra-red ray treatment may be used with benefit whenever the tissues are inflamed, when infection is present, and when there is need to speed up tissue repair. In other words, the infra-red ray treatment may be employed for such conditions as arthritis or inflammation of the joints, sprains and strains, or neuritis. It may be helpful for boils, infected wounds, or prostate gland inflammation. On the other hand, when the condition is deeper in the tissues, an electrical form of treatment known as diathermy may prove to be more valuable.

Infra-red ray treatment should not be employed when there has been an injury with bleeding into the tissues or when there is an insufficiency in the blood supply.

Moderate Heat
In arthritis the infra-red rays by supplying moderate heat, dilate or widen the tiny blood vessels, increase the circulation and speed up the activity in the cells. The heat also tends to relieve the pain in the joints to some extent and makes the cold, clammy skin of the arthritic patient warm and red.

In certain eye disorders the application of heat is valuable in relieving the symptoms. Using infra-red rays for this purpose has advantages over other methods because it is clean, can be done without risk of infecting the wound, and without any direct contact with the lids. Furthermore there is no pain from pressure, such as may occur with the use of hot water bottles. Thus, infra-red ray treatments may be used in such eye disorders as sties, inflammation of the eye glands, the tear sac, ulcer of the cornea or front part of the eyeball or inflammation of the colored part of the eyeball known as iritis.

Infra-red ray treatments have also been used in sinus infections. Such treatment is comforting, helps increase the drainage from the sinuses and overcomes blocking of the nasal passages. Of course it is important to understand that this type of treatment should only be given under the doctor's direction.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

"LILLI," MADISON began easily, "people say you're a good friend of Vicente's."

She did not answer, and he went on, his voice almost affable. "Of course, there's no reason why you shouldn't be friends. For that matter, there's no real reason why Vicente and I shouldn't be friends—neither of us can gain anything by this eternal fighting." He waited, but could make nothing of her half-averted face. "Unless," he added casually, "he'd rather go on working with Bogard."

Still no sign—for all he could tell she might not even be listening, and feeling he had wasted time, he rose to his feet. "If you ever see Vicente, you tell him what I said. And tell him that another one of my vaqueros disappeared this morning. He probably knows all about that, but what he doesn't know is that tomorrow there'll be a reward offered for him dead or alive. That'll put some life in the soldiers."

At the word "soldiers" he saw her start. That at least had made an impression, and seizing his advantage, he hurried on. "If there's enough money in it for them, the soldiers will make it hot for your friend Vicente."

Eyes shadowed with fear, Lilli answered, "It's not Vicente's fault what happens. You know that. Vicente only does what his chief tells him."

"But Vicente will be the one to suffer. And if Bogard gets mixed up in it, he'll suffer too." Madison licked his lips. "Vicente and Bogard both—rotting out their days in the prison colony."

"No!" It was an involuntary cry of dread. She came toward him, her fear of him forgotten, while curiously Madison watched her. "Well?" he asked. "What is it?"

"If I tell you something, will you promise to keep the soldiers from hurting Vicente—or Cliff?"

"If I can tell you who the real Blackland leader is—the one who makes Vicente do what he does—would you let Vicente and Cliff alone?"

Madison's head jerked. The leader! Here was something beyond his wildest hopes. He tried to speak calmly. "I promise."

"You won't do anything to Vicente?"

"No, I told you, no!" His voice was shrilling with impatience. A silence that to Madison seemed eternity, then, "The Blackland leader is Miss Janet's father."

"You little fool!" He barked a laugh of savage disappointment. "Norman's been dead two years."

"He's not dead. He's alive. I saw him."

"You little babbling!" He stopped. She seemed so very sure, and within him stirred a memory of Norman's fierce championship of the Blacklands people. Another memory flashed in upon him—it had been Vicente who guided the searching party to the doctor's camp. Yes, and that the real of the Blackland leader followed almost on the heels of Norman's disappearance. The thing was unbelievable, and yet—

He leaned over her. "Where did you see Dr. Norman?"

She made a vague gesture toward the jungle.

"Where?" Seizing her by both shoulders, he shook her. Tears started from her eyes, but she would not speak, and with an effort he controlled himself.

"I'm sorry, Lilli. I won't ask you where you saw him. I don't care where you saw him, but just tell me this—are you certain, absolutely certain, it was Dr. Norman?"

"I'm certain."

A thrill of exultation swept him. The story could be true! It had to be true! That was why Janet had come back. And only a few hours ago she had called him a thief!

"Does Janet Norman know where her father is?" he demanded.

"I guess so."

"Then she can tell the soldiers all about it." He hurried out into the night and followed, "Sloan! You go ahead to the river camp. I'm riding over to the garrison."

"Look, Boss"—Sloan's voice grated in disgust—"you ain't going to get us mixed up with the soldiers?"

"I've got a tale that will make them our friends for life." Madison stopped. "And I better take that brat along to vouch for it." He raced back to the shack, but at the door he began cursing. The room was empty.

It was nearly dawn when Cliff heard Lilli calling him from outside his door. At sight of her stricken face, he lifted her in his arms and carried her to a chair.

"What's wrong? Are you hurt?" "The soldiers—" She was very close to exhaustion.

"What about the soldiers?" Wordless, she clung to him like a frightened child, then at last, "They're coming for Miss Janet. It was my fault. Don't be mad at me."

He knelt beside her while brokenly she told him the tale. "I saw you and Miss Janet through the window," she ended, and a sob shook her. "I was jealous, and I went back to the cabin to stay. I never wanted to come here again. Then when Madison said he was going for the soldiers, I ran all the way down to tell you. Please don't be mad."

"There isn't time to be mad." Anything could happen if Janet fell into the soldiers' hands. Norman might give himself up, or worse still, attack the garrison and put himself for all time on the wrong side of the law. Or Cliff's own men might make some desperate attempt to rescue her. And even in that moment of crisis Cliff felt a reluctant admiration for Madison's strategy in sending soldiers to take Janet instead of his own vaqueros. Cliff might oppose the vaqueros, but he could not risk open conflict with the federalists.

He lifted Lilli from out the chair. "Go wake Janet," he ordered. "Have her put on her riding things and meet me at the office. Make her hurry."

In the barn, he saddled his two best horses, and leaving them hidden behind a bulldozer, ran back to the office. Janet and Lilli were already waiting, and he bundled Janet into her jacket.

"We've got to get away from here," he told her. "There's no time to explain why, but if you're caught it means a smash-up."

"I'm ready." Her face was pale, but the low voice was resolute, and he knew he could count on her. There would be no weakening, whatever happened, and within him he felt a thrill of pride that this should be so.

Turning the lamp down to a mere speck of flame, he beckoned to Lilli. "When the soldiers come, keep them here. Tell them anything, but hold them as long as you can." His hand was on the knob. "Now—"

Quick as a cat he flattened against the wall. Outside, a flashlight gleamed, heavy footsteps sounded on the path, then loud and clear came a sharp command in Spanish.

Violently Cliff pulled Janet from the door—the soldiers were already there.

A boot scraped on the steps, a heavy rap reverberated through the darkened room, and Cliff's hand closed about Janet's wrist. He hurried her across the floor to his instrument locker.

"Get in!" he whispered.

Quickly she stepped inside, squeezing back among the levels and compass staffs, and picking up his poncho, Cliff hung it in front of her. The folds completely covered her, and Cliff started to shut the locker, then thinking better of it, opened the door wide.

Once again, louder this time and more impatiently, came the rapping, then the knob turned, and a flashlight in hand, the sergeant scanned in.

At sight of that dreaded federalist uniform, Lilli shrank back against Cliff, and throwing his arm about her, he drew the girl to him. It was thus the sergeant found them. Briefly the soldier's dark eyes dwelt on the two forms, standing so close together in the dimness, and his lips moved in a smile of understanding. He gave a short salute.

"Dispenso, senior. One regrets this intrusion, but we are looking for Senorita Norman."

"Why look here?" Cliff's voice was sharp with simulated anger. "We were told—"

The sergeant stopped, and Cliff felt his pulse skip a beat, for those dark eyes had come to rest on the soldier. The soldier took a step forward, then apparently satisfied by the open door, turned to Cliff. "Where would Senorita Norman be?"

"She went to New Dixie early this evening."

"But she lives here, no?" Cliff made a gesture toward the river. "She lives in the first building beyond the warehouse."

"Gracias." Again the sergeant's eyes passed in frank approbation on Lilli's face, and at sight of her burning cheeks, he raised both shoulders in an apologetic shrug. "I am desolate to disturb you at such a time." Nodding to Cliff, he left the office.

Within the room, no one stirred until the tramp of feet had died away, then Cliff heard Lilli give a sigh of relief. Hurrying to the locker, he pulled the poncho aside.

"Let's get out of this." He drew Janet, half suffocated, from her narrow hiding place. Forcing himself to move deliberately, he opened the office door and peered up the path. As far as he could see it lay empty, and taking Janet by the hand, he slipped out, closing the door behind him. The horses were standing where he had hidden them, and lifting Janet into the saddle, he mounted, then listened. No sound except the chorus of frogs from the river and the low roar of the rapids. Turning, he started up the path.

For Friday, February 28

CONFLICTING configurations make this a day demanding exceptional forethought and keen sagacity before making any moves of importance. Strange situations or sudden developments may change plans and objectives already on the way to enduring progress, but this unforeseen event only complicates and baffles. Seize promising openings with keen insight and not emotions, and expect to cope with influential sources. Subtle approach, even some fancy social flourishes, may have magic denouements.

For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of dramatic and intriguing developments, in which all manner of tactics, sagacious, clever, subtle and at the same time conservative and restrained, may be needed. A sudden and perhaps startling situation calls for keen insight and quick action, but no rash jump into hazardous futures. Social, romantic or intriguing tactics might have force in making decisions and would bring desired contacts or needed diversion. Be ready for any phase of the unexpected.

A child born on this day has many diverse phases of character and talents, and should endeavor to be a hazardous, adventurous career, of strange conflicts and experiences.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHICH OCCURS FIRST?
HOW THE contract makes out can depend upon which of two events occurs before the other. Usually that means which of two suits is led first. In the case of a No Trump contract, if the declarer's only stopper in a particular suit is removed early in the play, he can not afford loss of a trick in some other suit in order to establish his lower cards.

On the other hand, if he can set up that suit of his own while he still has the stopper of the adverse one, he may be okay. The same principal applies also to premature removal of a re-entry as to removal of a stopper.

That was interesting bidding, caused by East's failure to sort his cards properly. He had made a fast pass before he discovered the spade A, so tried to correct his remissness on his second turn by making a bid which was both a free bid over North's 1-diamond and a one-more-than-Necessary jump as a high card strength show.

North decided that West must be ready for a diamond lead, so selected the heart J. When he did he made the contract a cinch for the declarer. The Q won that, a club was led to the A and a small spade brought back from dummy. South came in with the K and then returned the Q of his partner's precariously-bid diamond suit. It was too late, however. West used his A, scored the spade Q, led to the club K, ran the rest of the spades and finished with club tricks—having had the fun of discarding the heart A, which he did not need.

Just notice what would have happened if North had led a diamond. The A would have been knocked out right at the start. West could not possibly accumulate more than ten tricks before trying to set up some spades. When he tackled that suit, South would return the lethal diamonds to set him.

Veterans Administration Wars | No Quick Senate Passage Seen
On Chiselers of GI Benefits | For 2-Term Tenure Amendment

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Veterans' Administration is carrying on a quiet but vigorous drive against ex-GIs who are "chiseling" too many benefits.

Principal offenders are former servicemen who have been collecting both jobless pay and educational or training subsistence allowances.

Others put in claims for readjustment allowances while employed on a full-time basis, using an alias to hold their jobs. Still another type of offender is the man who attempts to collect an educational allowance to which he is not entitled.

There have been instances in which a veteran has sought to obtain jobless pay, student or training allowance, and a salary from one or more private employers, all at the same time.

VA officials point out that up to the present they have had their hands full setting the various programs in operation. Now, however, the routine machinery is functioning smoothly and enforcement efforts can be put on a rigid basis.

The VA emphasizes that dishonest veterans are far in the minority, but will single out a number of "chiselers" for punitive action in the near future.

THE NEWFOUND FRIENDSHIP between AFL and CIO maritime unions may give a push to the larger issue of merger between the two labor groups.

CIO President Philip Murray is expected to appoint a five-man committee to confer with a similar delegation from the AFL on "organic unity."

It is possible that Joe Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, will be named to the committee. Curran was instrumental in bringing about the AFL-CIO maritime union harmony.

Moreover, Curran and Harry Lundberg, AFL seamen's chief, now see eye-to-eye on the matter of ousting Communists from the labor movement. This will be a big factor in any eventual amalgamation of the AFL and CIO.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS BELIEVE the House-passed constitutional amendment limiting the tenure of the presidency to two four-year terms will have hard going in the Senate.

Senators who worked with the late President Roosevelt and were administration men are expected to put up stiff opposition to the bill. They will claim, for one thing, that it rebukes the memory of the war-time chief executive.

The Republican majority will be solidly behind the proposed amendment, however, as will many "deep south" Democrats. They hope the coalition will furnish the necessary two-thirds vote to send the measure on to the states for ratification.

SENATOR KENNETH McKELLAR'S anti-Lilienthal Communist hunt bagged no "Reds" of consequence in TVA.

Senators considering Lilienthal's nomination to head the atomic energy commission gave a skeptical eye to the Tennessee's Communist hunt.

However, McKellar started something when he casually touched on Lilienthal's devotion to the theory of public ownership. Although disassociating themselves from McKellar, Senators Edward V. Robertson, Styles Bridges, Kenneth S. Wherry and others promptly blasted Lilienthal.

So the question moves toward a showdown with "New Dealism" as the issue.

Group D Meets In Adkins Home

Mrs. Robert Adkins, Montclair avenue, lent the hospitality of her home Thursday evening to members of group D, Woman's Association of the Presbyterian church, for their regular monthly meeting. Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Charles Dresbach and Mrs. Olin Dresbach.

Mrs. E. O. Crites, chairman, presided at the meeting, and presented Mrs. Edwin Jury, who read an article on missionaries. Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, Jr. read a paper on "Ohio Composers". She traced the history of music and composers in Ohio from pioneer days, to modern music and musicians, from the first gospel singing of the churches, and the drinking and dancing songs of the taverns in pioneer days. In closing her most interesting review Mrs. Adkins, told of the founding of the Cincinnati symphony orchestra in 1895, and of the birth of the Cleveland orchestra in 1918, as well as many other Ohio orchestra and operatic groups.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. Howard Clark Is Hostess To GOP Boosters Meeting

Mrs. Howard Clark, Walnut street, entertained members of GOP Boosters Thursday evening. Meeting was called to order by Mrs. B. M. Wignel, president, which opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the group singing "America".

Topics discussed during the session were, "February as the month of famous men's birthdays", which included, Thomas Edison, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. "Thirty-seven years ago Boy Scout organization was founded" and "Ninety-two years ago the first republican convention was held." These discussions were followed by a song-fest.

Dedication ceremony was held for the new American flag, which was recently purchased. President read a letter from Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, containing a message and gift from Congressmen and Mrs. Walter Brehm. Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Wayne Stonerock, and Miss Leona Dumm were remembered at this time by their "secret-pals" in observance of their birthday anniversaries.

The group held a shower for Mrs. Marion Ervin Smith, who is a member of GOP Boosters. Mrs. Smith is a recent war-bride from Ipswich England.

Hostess served refreshments, which was followed by the playing of games. Prizes were presented to Mrs. John Straley, Mrs. Charles Winner and Mrs. George Mavis.

Lutheran Family Circle Observes 4th Anniversary

Sixty-five members and friends attended the cooperative dinner of the Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran church, held Thursday evening in the parish house. The affair was in celebration of the fourth birthday of the circle. Dining room table was centered with a group of four white cakes, flanked by tall burning tapers.

Mrs. Harold Anderson and Mrs. Gladden Troutman, served on the dining room committee, and were responsible for the regular monthly session. Fritz Sieverts was in charge of the program. He presented moving pictures, entitled, "Prodigal Son", and a travelogue of "Trains". During the short business meeting the Family Circle agreed to sponsor a Cub pack, which will be open to any boy.

SCOUT COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING, HEARS REPORTS

Monthly meeting of the Circleville and Pickaway county Girl Scout council was held at headquarters on North Court street Wednesday evening, at 8 p. m. Fourteen members answered roll-call with Mrs. Bernard W. Young, commissioner, presiding.

Miss Rose Good read the secretary's report. Troop development report was given by Mrs. William Radcliff. Mrs. John Gordon is the new Juliette Low member of council in charge of fostering the international program of the scouts. Mrs. John Russell will replace Miss Ruth Workman as assistant to Miss Eddie Bingham of intermediate troop No. 9, Miss Loretta Smith will act as second assistant for intermediate troop No. 11. Mrs. Tom Bennett will assist Mrs. Collins Young, who will assume leadership of Senior Troop No. 8, and Mrs. Robert Brehmer, Jr. Committee members of troop No. 8 now are: Mrs. Hillis Hall, Mrs. Don Eitel, Mrs. Doyle Hass and Mrs. Robert Brehmer, Jr. Members of senior troop No. 8 are planning a style show for March 18.

Mrs. Dwight Steele, chairman, read the public relations report. She said, that during Girl Scout week a Margaret O'Brien, movie short would be shown, in one of Circleville's theaters.

Letter and check for $5, from the D.A.R. to be used for the lodge was received. A letter was read from Miss Margaret Morgan, Girl Scout district worker, thanking all for her pleasant stay in Circleville. A visit from Mrs. Merritt Farrell, Newtown, who is the new regional member of the Girl Scout National Organization is anticipated at an early date.

Mrs. Walter Heine, chairman of the Juliette Low members, reported that a total of 20 boxes, 107 pounds, and a value of $90.57 had been collected by the girls and sent as friendship boxes to Girl Scouts in devastated countries. Countries chosen for these gifts included Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, England, Philippines Islands, Greece and Belgium. Juliette Low members of the several troops are I, Nancy Watt and Nancy Bower, 2-Jacqueline Smith, 3-Jo Ellen Good, Brownie troop 5 Anne Adkins, Ashville troop 6 Ann Kraft, Brownie troop 7, Ann Stocklin, senior troop 8, Wanda Young, 9, Yvonne Clifton, Brownie troop 10, Dotty Renick, and troop 11, Eleanor Lewis. The function of these girls is to foster international spirit within the troop and encourage friendship with other countries.

CERTIFIED LEGHORN CHICKS A few cents more invested in good chicks is money wisely invested. With eggs at 4c apiece it only takes 2 or 3 extra eggs next fall to offset the higher cost of 8 to 12c more for a better pullet now. When you buy chick, you are buying next winter's egg production. Every pullet you buy here is the daughter of an R.O.P. male of 275 to 340 eggs and a daughter or granddaughter of a R.O.P. hen of 250 to 343 eggs. Officially no Pullorum reactors the last two years.

Listener Boycott Would Improve Radio Says FCC's New 34-Year-Old Chairman

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The American public has radio control in the palm of its hand—through listeners' boycotts. That is the challenge of Charles R. Denny, new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

"If you do not like a program, or a commercial, just turn the dial," advises the plain-spoken Denny. "If everybody would do that, the most objectionable features on the radio would not last long."

Thirty-four-year-old Denny—Washington's baby bureau chief—urges listeners not to be bashful about expressing their likes and their dislikes. Broadcasters should be told about their service, whether it is good or bad, according to Denny's way of thinking.

"Broadcasters operate on frequencies which belong to the people," Denny points out in justifying the federal licensing system. "Thus the broadcasters are trustees of the people, and it is fitting that they should be accountable to them."

In becoming the full-fledged chairman after several months in an acting capacity, Denny outlines the policies which will guide the commission in granting of license renewals. He plans to go all the way in supporting the commission's now famous blue book which accused the industry of excessive commercialization.

While Denny accepts the general assumption that the American system of broadcasting is the "best in the world," he says the real question is whether American broadcasting is as good as it can be. Working "at arm's length" with the industry, he is pushing towards that goal.

From the technical standpoint, radio has at least approached perfection through frequency modulation broadcasting, in the opinion of Denny. He is highly enthusiastic over the immediate prospects of FM for the average listener.

Some 700 FM stations are expected to be on the air by the end of this year, he says. There are applications for 300 more pending.

"I think this makes it evident that FM will play a highly important role in the broadcasting of tomorrow," Denny says. "I urge every one who contemplates buying a new receiving set to inform himself fully regarding the status of FM in his community before he chooses his receiver."

Five High Points

The high points of the blue book which will guide the commission in the consideration of applications for license renewals are, according to Denny's interpretation:

1—When an applicant promises to meet certain requirements, he should come reasonably close to fulfillment.

2—Some of the popular listening hours should be devoted to sustaining programs, although the commission does not contend a commercial program cannot be a public service.

3—A balanced number of local programs should be developed to supplement network shows and transcriptions.

4—Radio should stress educational as well as entertainment programs.

5—While advertising does play an indispensable part in our American system of broadcasting, the listeners' interest also should receive ample consideration.

Denny, as the chief spokesman for the government in this field, is going to stand his ground with the radio industry, but improved relations already are apparent.

"At least, this man Denny is going to do it with a smile," one radio official commented wryly, referring to the fighting tactics of some of his predecessors.

A brisk, vigorous young man, Denny has demonstrated his willingness to go half-way with the industry. Feuding is not his technique, and neither does he intend to reply to criticism in "purple language." He believes, nevertheless, in straight talk.

Today's Horoscope

The person who celebrates a birthday today is spiritually inclined and your interest in religion is absorbing, but your analytical mind will not let you accept any doctrine or follow any sect without understanding it. You are loving and sincere, fond of travel and outdoor sports. The influences for today are adverse. They indicate recklessness, waste, extravagance and splurging. You are inclined to act against your own best interests. Travel is not advised. Do not allow pleasure, whether social or intellectual, to interfere with vocational matters during the next 12 months. Otherwise good-will and help of employers may be jeopardized. Born on this date a child will be sympathetic, humane, inspirational, idealistic, artistic, musical, literary, refined, very intuitive, and generally fortunate, but likely to lose through excessive generosity.

Words of Wisdom

Be discreet in all things, and so render it unnecessary to be mysterious about any.—Welling-ton.

Hints on Etiquette

If you are giving a dinner or luncheon, try to seat people next to each other who will be congenial in tastes and so enjoy each other's company and conversation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 — One fact about radio is indisputable — you have to be careful what you say on the air because you never can tell that there might be somebody listening.

It happened one afternoon ("Cross Roads Cafe," 6:30 p. m. EST.) when singer Elaine Howard in a burst of ad lib exuberance lamented her constant role as the sweet young thing. "I want to be loved," she said simply.

The phrase staggered over the airwaves, bowled over the eagers swains. Next day, the deluge and Miss Howard, not displeasing to the eyes of the sundry respondents, found the mail bag heaped with hearts and offers.

Modestly wrote one youth: "I am handsome, cute and smart." But his courage ran out because he concluded: "Nobody ever answers my letters so I won't tell you my name."

In the pile of Cupid's darts, an honest lad bared his soul and his pocketbook: "you have every right to be loved and I want to be the first candidate. However, I make very little on my job so would it be all right if we went out dutch treat?"

Distrustful of the mails, an earnest suitor appeared at the studios one day in search of "the girl who wants to be loved." Here, he said to loveless Elaine and thrust a crate of live quabs in her arms. "Oh," she said appreciatively, "but I don't have an icebox."

The following day came back the gentleman and the squabs... cooked.

Louise Summa must be an efficient secretary. She's now entering her 13th year as Girl Friday for "Amos 'n' Andy."

New York's recent blizzard almost caused Ralph Locke, Papa David on "Life Can Be Beautiful" serial, to miss a broadcast for the first time in the eight years the program has been aired. Locke lives in Long Island and was driving to the New York studio when his car skidded off the icy road into a ditch. He left it there and hitched a ride from, of all things, a refrigerator truck, and arrived in time to breathlessly speak his first line into the mike.

A farmer, George Moffitt, of Menlo, Iowa, showed a neat profit when he received the outright gift of $1,000 from the sponsor of the "Pot o' Gold" program because he answered his telephone as the call was made by Comedian-emcee Happy Felt on from the ABC Vanderbilt theater studios in New York. Two of the precious three minutes allotted for the famous call had ticked off when Moffitt finally answered. He and the round comedian exchanged weather reports on their respective communities and indulged in a moment of light banter as the call ended. Moffitt is the third Iowan to receive the "Pot o' Gold" since the program went on the air early in October.

County Teachers Urged By Unknown Groups To Take 'Holiday'

TEACHERS HERE NOT EXPECTED TO JOIN MARCH

Anonymous Letters Urging Strike, Trip To Capital Sent Instructors

Some of the more than 210 school teachers in Circleville and Pickaway County, it was learned Friday, have received through the mails letters urging them to join in a five-day work "holiday" to begin Monday with a "march" on the state capital at Columbus.

The letters are undated and unsigned. Indications Friday were that no teachers in the city or county will take part in the movement aimed to compel the granting of larger salaries to teachers.

School officials, in disclosing they were aware of the circulation of the anonymous letters, expressed the opinion that the "march" and the five-day "holiday", if carried out, would actually hinder rather than help the teachers in obtaining deserved increases in salary.

It was learned that some of the teachers have recently received two such unsigned letters. The first, in the form of a "chain" letter, states that the "only way to get action" on the pay raise proposition is by a "five-day holiday" March 3 to 7 by teachers throughout the state. Each recipient of the letter was asked to copy it at least nine times and mail the copies to teachers in various sections of Ohio.

The second anonymous letter urged each teacher receiving it to join in the "march" on the state capital on Monday.

Some of the letters were postmarked at Portsmouth and others were postmarked at Peebles, Bainbridge, and Columbus.

Reports from other sections of Ohio indicate that the unsigned letters—which some school officials believe may be part of radical propaganda—have been widely distributed throughout the state.

Officials of the Ohio Education Association, a bona fide organization, issued a statement at Columbus appealing to members of that organization to ignore the anonymous "chain" letters.

55 ARE PRESENT FOR MEETING OF STAR GRANGE

Francis Furniss, master, presided Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Star grange, with fifty-five members and visitors present.

Mrs. Frank Carter, Mt. Pleasant grange, gave a very interesting report of the state grange convention held during December in Columbus. Grange members voted to contribute $15 to the Red Cross campaign, and money was collected to be sent a needy grange family. Mrs. Russell Timmons, juvenile lecturer, will be sponsored at the short course March 17 through 21 for "grangers" at Ohio State University.

Lecture hour program was opened with a piano solo "Nodding Daisies" by Miss Margaret Anderson, readings, "A longword Washington" and "A Patriotic Creed" by Miss Mildred Furniss and Miss Joan Hildenbrand. Roll call was answered with patriotic quotations, by Tom Conrad, Clark Dennis, C. M. Reid and Harry Bailey. Humorous discussions followed with both the men and women taking part. Members of the group sang, "Old Glory", and the film, "Pork on the Farm" was shown. The film portrayed how to kill, dress, cut and cure homegrown hogs.

Mrs. Marie Dick, chairman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Rivers, Mrs. Alice Van Fossen and Mrs. Lulu Sheets served refreshments at the close of the program.

VET BONUS MARCHERS INVADE OHIO'S CAPITAL

ENJOINED to apply "maximum pressure on authorities" for speedy solution to five problems, these veterans brandish signs as they march through Columbus. An estimated 1,000 ex-servicemen are in the Ohio capital demanding a state bonus law, low-rent housing project, improved GI bill of rights, a state FEPC to do away with discrimination and improved veterans' health program. FLIGHT TRAINING AVAILABLE TO ENLISTED MEN

Army Air Forces have reopened flight training leading to commission in the U. S. Army Air Forces for the first time since V-J Day, S-Sgt. Robert H. Kuhn in charge of the Army recruiting station in Circleville announced today. Candidates for the training will be drawn from the ranks of Regular Army enlisted men, and will receive 52 weeks flight training, and successful candidates will be commissioned second lieutenants and assigned to flying duty with the Army Air Forces.

Applicants must be unmarried male citizens of the United States between 18 years and 26 years six months old, have four years of high school credits, of excellent character, and must be of sound physique and in excellent health. There is one other requirement, according to Sgt. Kuhn, which he will be able to help the applicant satisfy.

The applicant must be a Regular Army enlisted man assigned to the Army Air Forces. Any young man who is interested can contact the Army recruiting station located at 217 North Court Street or call 106 and the recruiting sergeant will call at his home.

CHIEF McCRADY BACKS ROBINSON PLEA FOR POLICE

Police Chief William F. McCrady voiced approval Friday of the declaration made by Howard G. Robinson, Newark private detective, who told members of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night that the Circleville police department is in urgent need of more men and better equipment. Chief McCrady cited that the department now has only seven members. He asserted that the department should have "at least 10" men. He also endorsed Detective Robinson's recommendation for two-way radio communication between the police cruiser and police headquarters.

Atom Control Plan Due To Return To Commission; Bitter Words Fly

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 28—The United Nations security council's approval of the American proposal to send the Baruch atom control plan back to the atomic energy commission is foreshadowed in today's session at Lake Success.

Advance indications are that a majority vote in favor of the United States resolution is certain, provided that debate tactics do not intervene to delay such a decision.

The council's recourse to the proposal as laid down by chief American representative Warren R. Austin would forestall any veto in the near future of the atomic energy commission's report. In present circumstances, this veto was virtually certain through the pronounced opposition to the Baruch plan displayed by Soviet Russia.

Approval by the council today of the American offer automatically would short-circuit the 12 amendments to the Baruch plan submitted by Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko, some of which in effect nullified the most important provisions of the atomic code.

Diplomatic sources pointed out that in effect the deadlock on disarmament and atom control thus will have been solved through a makeshift compromise whereby both Russia and the United States have won a partial victory. If the American resolution is approved, then the Baruch plan gets renewed and broadened immediate consideration outside the council and the latter nominates the Russian-sponsored disarmament commission which can deal only with conventional weapons and armaments.

For today's session, observers predict a somewhat calmer meeting than the several hours of acrid debate and procedural wrangling which marked yesterday's council over the Corfu channel mining incident.

Britain's delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan once more flung bitter charges of guilt at Albania and branded the mining of Corfu channel as "murder." He dis-
